Moves Place U.S. Second In Missiles

General Says Country Will Lag Until '61

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union will open up a lead in missile strength next year and the United States will be unable to keep up, Air Force Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever said Friday.

Decisions made during the past two years have committed the United States to second place in the missile race at least until the end of 1961, Schriever told the House Space Committee.

Meantime, President Eisenhower met for more than an hour with his top military, diplomatic and science advisers. Leaving the White House afterward, officials who took part called the conference routine.

TESTIMONY

In his House testimony, Schriever said the United States and the Soviet Union are about equal now in the number of missiles.

"But next year, if our intelligence estimates are correct, they will have superiority in numbers," Schriever said.

The youthful general, who heads the Air Force's Research and Development Command, said it takes nearly two years to achieve increased production in missiles.

"Increasing the number of missiles in your inventory isn't like turning a faucet on or off," he said. "We are committed now to the number of missiles we'll have for the next two years."

Schriever, who played a key role in bringing the Atlas intercontinental rocket into operation, recalled that in both 1958 and 1959 he urged an increase in missiles.

He could not make a similar plea now, he said, because by the time the extra missiles began

Hope Wanes For Miners In Africa

CAPETOWN, South Africa UPI — All hope was abandoned Friday for the 440 men sealed 500 feet below ground in a coal mine shaft.

Prime Minister Henrick Verwoerd said there was no chance any of the six Europeans and 434 Africans were alive beneath a wall of rock and coal in the Clydesdale colliery at Coalbrook. The South African Assembly adjourned for the day in mourning.

WORK

Rescue work had continued for 15 days after the Jan. 21 rock slide that trapped the men with 70 horses in a gallery of the mine. Subsequent rockfalls sealed them in tighter and attempts to use high-speed diamond drills to reach them failed. One drill was flown from the United States.

A microphone and TV camera dropped down a 500-foot borehole Thursday revealed nothing.

Next of kin of the victims were notified that their husbands, sons and brothers were officially dead.

The officially announced toll of 440 men made the disaster one of the worst in the world, ranking behind a mine collapse in France in 1906 in which more than 500 persons were killed.

The worst mine disaster occurred April 26, 1942, in Manchuria when 1,549 miners lost their lives.

House Group Makes Start On Fund Cut

Aims At Goal Of Sheared Budget Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee made a modest start Friday toward its goal of cutting at least two billion dollars from President Eisenhower's new money requests and curbing his proposals to expand the federal payroll.

In the first of 15 annual appropriations bills to be considered this year, it recommended $760,522,235 in new funds for the Commerce Department and related agencies. It refused to finance 809 proposed new jobs. The President had requested $799,615,000, including money to set up 1,070 new jobs.

CUT

The minimum cut of two billion dollars in new money and 40,000 new jobs was the tentative goal set by Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) and senior Republican John Taber of New York when Eisenhower sent his budget to Congress last month.

The two committee leaders said the $79,400,000,000 in new appropriations requested included money to finance an estimated 42,500 new government jobs.

How well the budget-cutting drive succeeds won't be determined until the committee tackles bills carrying larger appropriations. Two of these measures, financing the Interior Department, Treasury, and Post Office Department, are scheduled for committee action next Friday.

The Weather Bureau bore the brunt of the job-cutting campaign in the Commerce Department bill. It sought money for 200 new positions, most of them in proposed new aviation programs. The committee didn't approve any of them, explaning that many phases of the expanding aviation weather services "have yet to be resolved."

Largest allotment of money was for maritime activities, which received $294,790,335 of the $298,390,000 requested, subject to action by the full House and then the Senate. Funds approved included $126,200,000 for ship construction and $150,000,000 for subsidy payments.

The committee approved $27,662,500 of the $28,795,000 requested by the Census Bureau, and 43½ million of 50 million asked for the National Bureau of Standards. The Bureau of Standards got approval of 23½ million it requested to start work on new buildings at Gaithersburg, Md.

U.S. Calls On Reds To Halt Threats

Hurls Challenge At Soviets To Aim For Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States called on Moscow Friday to stop Communist threats of one-sided action on Germany if it really aims for peace.

The United States also challenged the Reds to join at next month's disarmament conference in working out specific arms ban measures that can be enforced.

The U.S. statement was issued by State Department press officer Lincoln White following a declaration by European Communist leaders meeting in Moscow.

LEADERS

The Red Warsaw Pact leaders renewed Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for a separate pact with East Germany.

The Red proposal is regarded by the West as a threat against Allied occupation of West Berlin because it could put the East Germans, whom the West does not recognize, in command of supply lines to the isolated city.

Germany and the Berlin question are key problems slated to come before President Eisenhower, Khrushchev and the British and French chiefs at the summit meeting to be held in May.

White said the United States welcomes any Soviet bloc move "which would provide practical confirmation of the frequently repeated disavowal by the Soviet Union of aggressive intentions."

"We find such disavowals, however, difficult to reconcile with the repetition by the Warsaw Pact of the Soviet threat to take unilateral action with regard to Germany," he added.

The Soviet Union and four European Communist countries are slated to meet with five Western nations, including the United States, at a general disarmament conference starting in Geneva March 11. Khrushchev has made much in his speechmaking of the proposed Soviet troop cutback and his broad plan for world disarmament in four years.

2-Year-Old Succumbs In Hospital

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — A four-engine Bolivian airliner crashed in the Andes Mountains Friday killing all 56 persons aboard, including a 2-year old girl who survived the impact and flames but died in a hospital a few hours later.

The Bolivian Lloyd Airline's DC-4 went down only 15 minutes after taking off from Cochabamba for La Paz. A fire in the number 3 engine brought disaster to what would ordinarily have been a 55-minute flight.

REQUESTS

Airline officials said they had received requests to ship seven bodies to the United States, indicating there were that many North Americans aboard. Many of the victims could not be immediately identified, and there was some confusion as to the validity of the passenger list.

Five entire families were wiped out in the crash. Among the 51 passengers were several parents and their children who were returning to La Paz after holidays in the country.

The little girl who somehow survived the immediate impact of the crash, Jenny Escobar, was rushed to a hospital but died of internal injuries despite the efforts of doctors to save her.

It was Bolivia's worst air disaster.

The DC4 airliner plummeted into the water with one of its four engines aflame five minutes after taking off from Cochambamba.

Lloyd Aereo Boliviano, operators of the plane, said seven Americans were among the 54 passengers, including 10 children.

The U.S. consulate in La Paz said John Manning, an oil company employe, his wife and their child were among the Americans passengers. It had no further identification of the Mannings.

The crash raised to 221 the number of victims of commercial air crashes in 1960. It was the fifth commercial aviation disaster this year.

Among the victims were Italian-born industrialist Juan de Col and two members of his family. De Col was a long-time resident of Bolivia.

Also listed as dead were Bolivian Deputy Rene Antezana, from the District of Cochambamba, and Niceforo Rojas, cultural attache of the Bolivian Embassy in Mexico.

Area Increase Is Reported In Flu Cases

Hospitals at Winnfield, Jonesboro and Hodge were reported crowded with influenza patients Friday and at least three area schools reported high absenteeism.

Influenza cases during the current seige have been more acute than those of recent years in Jackson Parish, doctors at four hospitals and clinics agreed. Reports from Winnfield coincided.

WINNFIELD

At Winnfield, 75 to 90 out of 525 students have been missing from classes during the past few days, while at Westside Elementary the ratio has been running near or over 100 out of 809.

A check of schools in Jackson Parish failed to establish a notable trend, with absenteeism ranging from 46 out of 169 missing at Hodge Elementary Colored School to 22 out of 266 stay-at-homes at Quitman High School and not much more than usual at other points.

Superintendent of schools J. D. Koonce said that flu has "not reached an epidemic stage in Jackson Parish schools as a whole".

But hospitals have been crowded with patients for the past several days and Robinson Clinic, filled to capacity, had to throw up temporary quarters for a short while.

One doctor described it as "a light epidemic."

No influenza deaths have been reported in the parish.

Doctors said the illness usually lasts three to four days and is

'READY ANY TIME'

Khrush Quoted On Tests End

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press published a statement Saturday by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that he is ready to sign at any time a treaty ending nuclear weapons tests for all time, with "appropriate controls."

Khrushchev was quoted as saying the system of control recommended in 1958 by East-West experts at Geneva was perfectly acceptable as a basis for concluding an agreement.

The Khrushchev statement was made in reply to a letter from Prof. S. W. Powell, president of the World Federation of Scientific Workers, one of many federations dominated and controlled by Communists.

ENVISION

The 1958 experts' recommendation by Western and Communist scientists at Geneva envisioned a globe-girdling system to detect cheating on a ban, involving an unspecified number of control stations on land and at sea, staffed by experts able to make spot investigations of suspected explosions. The scientists did not spell out their recommendations publicly in detail.

This was followed by an agreement by representatives of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union at Geneva on Dec. 17, 1958, that a nuclear test ban should be controlled by a seven-member commission on which each of the big powers would have a permanent seat. The agreement never was implemented, however, and the conference recessed with all the major issues facing it still unsolved.

Sniper Hits 2 People On N.Y. Street

NEW YORK (UPI) A sniper, who apparently selected his victims at random shot and wounded two persons Friday while they were walking in mid-day crowds in the shadow of the Empire State Building.

Police said it was possible that the sniper fired from a window near the ground in the 102-story building, largest in the world.

Neither of the victims, struck by 22 - caliber, copper - jacketed bullets, was injured seriously. The shootings occurred two hours apart. The victims were not acquainted with each other.

SHOT

Mrs. Kathleen Cleary, 46, was shot in the hip. Knute Kyvik, 59, was struck in the shoulder. Both were in about the same place — on the south side of 34th street in front of the Empire State Building — when they were shot.

They told police that they had heard a noise like a firecracker exploding before they felt a sting. Neither realized at first that it was a bullet.

Mrs. Cleary, a cafeteria employe in the main Irving Trust Co. building in Wall Street, had been sent on an errand to the

Referee Plan Gets Boost From Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said Friday that voting certificates issued to Negroes under a Civil Rights Commission proposal would be about as worthless as tickets to the Dempsey-Firpo fight of 1923.

Rogers made what Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) called a "forceful and convincing" argument for the administration's alternate plan, which calls for the use of court - appointed referees where needed to protect Negro voting rights.

The Senate Rules Committee recessed until Feb. 17 after hearing the attorney general, making it unlikely that any committee action would be taken before the Senate opens debate on civil rights legislation Feb. 15.

BILLS

Only bills carrying out the Civil Rights Commission proposal for federal voter registrars are before the committee. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican floor leader, has said the administration plan probably will be offered as an amendment to whatever legislation is called up when debate starts.

Rogers told the Rules Committee that the plan proposed by the Civil Rights Commission in a report to Congress last September won't work. For one thing, he said it has "no real enforcement machinery behind it."

Under the plan, federal employes would be appointed by the President to serve as temporary voting registrars in areas where discrimination was found.

Asserting the registrar proposal "does not provide effective guarantees that those dicriminated against will be able to vote," Rogers said: "The registrars would merely be authorized to determine that, under the state qualification laws, an individual is entitled to vote in a federal

Work Scheduled On Compromise School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) School aid supporters said Friday there was no chance the House would go along with a feature of the Senate-approved aid-to- education bill providing federal grants for teachers' salaries.

They said the $1,833,000,000 cost of the measure, which would be in effect for two years, also would have to be reduced sharply to make it acceptable to the House.

AID

The Senate bill, approved 51-34 Thursday night in an election - year challenge to the Eisenhower administration, called for federal contributions to both teacher pay and school construction.

Federal aid advocates said chances were good the House would pass a lower-priced bill containing funds for construction only. A House education subcommittee will start work Monday in an attempt to work out a compromise.

Crews Clearing Highways After Heavy Drifts

Road crews cleared southwest highways of six -foot drifts, but an ice and rain storm turned midwest highways into death runs Friday.

Oklahoma Highway Department workers broke through a snowed in section of U.S. Highway 385 and found highway - blocking trucks and 40 to 50 abandoned cars. The car's occupants had already been brought in safely.

Jack Morgan of Guymon, Okla., was credited with possibly saving the lives of a number of motorists. Morgan manned a bulldozer to dig out stalled cars from the drifts and flew over the snow-lands in his airplane looking for

SURPRISE MOVE

High Court Delays Communist Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a surprise order late Friday, put off until next Oct. 10 the hearing of arguments in three major cases involving communism.

The high tribunal's action brought a sharp dissenting statement from Justice Tom Clark, who protested that the step was without precedent.

"It delays for another year decisions on two important acts of Congress—the Smith Act and the Internal Security Act of 1950."

The court's order said the justices have agreed to hear an appeal by the Communist party from a decision that it must register as an agent of Moscow.

This decision was given by the U.S. Court of Appeals here in the government's long legal battle to enforce the Communist registration provision of the 1950 Internal Security Act.

The Supreme Court order at the same time stated that argument in an appeal by Junius Irving Scales and a separate appeal by John Francis Noto, involving constitutionality of the membership clause of the Smith anticommunism law, would be argued with the Communist party case when the court opens its next term.

The tribunal earlier had set arguments on the Scales and Noto appeals for the week of Feb. 23. It is in recess until then.

Presumably, the decision to put off arguments in all three cases

AF REORGANIZATION

Thousands Slated For Special Units

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force ordered Friday a far-reaching reorganization of its reserve program that will put 30,000 men into atomic age disaster "recovery" units.

Their missions will include maintenance of hideaway emergency airfields from which planes could operate if their bases were destroyed, bomb damage repair and mobile communications work.

The reorganization, to be completed this year,also will place the training of 100,000 reserves and Air National Guardsmen directly under such major commands as the Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., and the Tactical Air Command at Langley, Va.

Shortly after the plan was disclosed, however, Rep. L. Mendell Rivers (D-S.C.), chairman of a House subcommittee on reserve matters, called upon the Air Force to postpone putting it into effect.

He said that the "Surreptitious manner in which the plan was conceived and announced" left the impression that this was "another calculated effort to downgrade the signifance of the Air Force reserve program."

Rivers said he was not at this time passing final judgment on the merits of the reorganization but would review the plan during forthcoming hearings of his subcommittee.

The three field training headquarters now maintained for the reserves will be abolished.

License Plates Deadline Shifted To Monday Here

Deadline for the purchase of 1960 automobile license plates, without penalty, has been extended from today until Monday, according to Robert L. Roland, collector of revenue for the state of Louisiana.

Reason for the extension was because the statutory deadline fell on Saturday, and offices of the Department of Revenue are normally closed on Saturdays.

C. R. Tidwell, manager of the Monroe office, announced yesterday that the Monroe and West Monroe offices will be closed as usual today.

"Automobile license plates may be purchased at the Department of Revenue offices without penalty until the close of business Monday, Feb. 8," Roland said.

He added that beginning Tuesday, the statutory penalty will be charged.

was made at a special unannounced conference.

Clark said Friday's order, "coming as it does in midterm with five months of sessions yet remaining is without precedent."

"I have found no appellate case in the history of the court that has been carried on the active docket for so many terms or argued so often," Clark said in referring to the Scales appeal.

Scales, a member of a prominent North Carolina family, formerly was chairman of the Communist party district embracing North and South Carolina.

He was convicted under the Smith Act's membership clause which makes it a crime to be a member of a group knowing that it advocates violent overthrow of the government.

Clark noted that the Scales case had been on the Supreme Court's active docket for five successive terms and fully argued twice without a final decision.

The Noto case, Clark said, involves the same issues as those in the Scales case. The Noto appeal has been pending before the high court for two successive terms.

Noto was a paid employe and organizer of the Communist party. He was active in Buffalo and western New York. Like Scales, Noto was convicted under the membership clause of the Smith Act and sentenced to five years in prison. Scales is under a six-year sentence.

The Communist party appeal contended registration provisions of the Internal Security Act were unconstitutional on their face, or as applied in the party's case by the Subversive Activities Control Board.

election and to issue to that individual a certificate to that effect. It seems doubtful whether this will in fact enable him to vote, and have his vote counted, in even a federal election."

He added: "The superiority of administration proposal which provides guarantees that the individual may vote in all elections both state and federal, on an equal footing with white persons and that his vote will be counted, is manifest."

Rogers emphasized that the voting referees called for in the administration plan, which he first unveiled at a news conference last week, would be backed up by federal court injunction powers.

He said state election officials enjoined from discriminatory practices would be subject to punishment for contempt if they attempted to prevent voting by Negroes certified by the referees.

Rogers stressed that under the 1957 Civil Rights Act, which the proposal would amend, a person may be sent to jail for 45 days or fined $300 for contempt without a jury trial.

Under the registrars plan, he said, there would be no way to enforce the right to vote of persons who receive registration certificates.

Further, he said, the registrar proposals could lead to chaotic conditions in areas where persons were certified to vote for federal candidates but not for state and local nominees.

Rogers said the administration plan is clearly constitutional and would entail a minimum of interference with state voting procedures.

coming off the production line new and better missiles should be ready for production.

"The decision is way above me," he said.

Schriever said that although the U.S.S.R. may have missile superiority that does not mean it will necessarily be superior in overall military strength. "You can't equate the total deterrent position with the number of missiles," he said.

The questioning of Schriever touched off an angry exchange between Republicans and Democrats on the committee.

Rep. James G. Fulton (D-Pa) said the subject of missile superiority had been made a political football by Democratic aspirants for the White House.

House Majority Leader John W. McCormack (D-Mass), a member of the committee, quickly retorted: "Any time we Democrats don't agree with the administration on defense we're accused of talking politics. I think you're getting on dangerous ground when you impugn the motives of anyone who questions defense policies."

Schriever said he has been trying unsuccessfully to get more money for a reconnaissance satellite he feels holds great promise for the future.

It would be able to peer down on enemy territory and detect a missile the instant it was fired. It is still in the research and development stage but could be pushed a lot faster, he said.

Schriever lined up solidly behind Gen. Thomas S. Power head of the Strategic Air Command, in Power's fight for more funds to maintain his bombers on continuous alert.

For at least the next two years, Schriever said, the Strategic Air Command will be the United States' major deterrent to war.

"If anything should knock it out," he said, "we'd be in a bad way."

Award Given Vet Official For Service

H. B. McClendon, Ouachita Parish Veterans' Service Officer, was awarded a service lapel pin by Emile J. Bourg, Jr., director of the department of Veterans Affairs, in the closing session of a meeting of service officers at the Old State Capitol in Baton Rouge, January 30.

This pin was awarded McClendon for having completed 15 or more years of service as a career officer serving veterans and their families. In presenting the pin, Bourg commended McClendon for this long period of service. He cited the tremendous amount of benefits that have come to veterans of Ouachita Parish as the result of McClendon's efforts, and stated that much suffering and deprivation have no doubt been alleviated by McClendon's devotion to his duties.

Other service officers receiving pins were I. T. Robinson, Winnsboro; William Harper, Minden; and W. P. Harris, Alexandria.

McClendon was attending a two-day annual state-wide meeting of all service officers of the Department of Veterans Affairs. The major item on the two-day agenda was a discussion of the Veterans' Pension Act of 1959 which is to become effective July 1, 1960. Present for this discussion, in addition to service officers of the Department of Veterans Affairs, were managers and staff members from each Veterans Administration Hospital and Regional Office in Louisiana, Commanders and other officials of several veterans organizations and other guests.

Neville Yearbook In Final Stages Of Publication

Neville High School sent the final copy for the 1960 Monroyan, yearbook, to the publishers the latter part of January, marking the first time the book's copy has been completed this early in over ten years. The annual is expected to be distributed to the student body the first part of April.

The Monroyan, established in 1922 as the Squeedunk, has for its theme this year the Diamond Anniversary of the school. There is a special 16 page introductory section which contains an extensive history of the school with pictures of the former city high school buildings and former and present school officials. The cover is of stiff thick material (instead of the usual padding of the past) with a metallic gold fabric finish featuring a special die embossing of the diamond anniversary insignia, a diamond with the school's tower inside.

The main staff members of the Monroyan included; Jane Crawford, editor; Lynda Bassett, managing editor; Connie Casey, business manager; Beth Fink, organizations editor; Lind Keller, introduction editor; Delores Calderone, class editor, Barbara McCoy, advertising manager, Bettie Sutton, circulation manager; Beverly Franks, Neal Gunn and Charles Garretson, sports editors, and Kenneth Blue, Wynn Jefferson, Jerry Mehl and Terry Hessick, photographers. Names of the various persons, serving as hospitality chairmen include Mrs. Bernard B. Biedenharn, Mrs. Walter Bentrup, commercial exhibits; Mrs. Don Gayton, professional exhibits; Mrs. W. W. Ward, registration; and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, publicity.

Miss Flanders is general chairman of the convention which will be held in the Frances Hotel.

SHOCK IN STORE

State Finances Brought In View

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A 100 million dollar shock is building up for the 1960 Legislature and the new Jimmie H. Davis administration taking office in May.

The cause of the shock is simple: The state government, with a current budget of 724 million dollars, is operating more than 50 million dollars above revenues this fiscal year.

Spending requests for the fiscal year starting July 1 already have climbed more than 50 million above present budget levels.

Added up, in round figures, that means an extra 100 million dollars.

The state budget office, in its 1959-60 budget report, said Louisiana has an actual operating deficit of 57 million this fiscal year. The deficit is being rubbed out by reaching back to last February and taking most of that 59 million dollar oil bonus windfall.

Budget officers wiped out the last of state surplus money when they used, for operating purposes, a four million balance in the State Property Tax and Relief Fund and 5½ million in the Rockefeller Refuge Fund.

For two straight years, Gov. Earl K. Long's Legislature has consumed surplus money in a spending program higher than state income. Some tax raises succeeded, some failed. Teachers pay problems and heavier welfare spending spurred the higher outgo.

The state squeezed by this year because of that 59 million oil miracle last February. But nothing even approaching that amount has been sighted this year.

State fiscal officers are silent at this stage while wrestling with the first of the scores of budgets and trying to figure out future income.

State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell, not involved in the budget planning, said, "I think everyone agrees we will have to have at least 50 million more at start of the next fiscal year just to keep things the way they are now. This is assuming there will be absolutely no budget increases.

"It appears now that budget requests for spending over and above present levels might reach an additional 50 million. And how much the Legislature will allow in budget increases is anyone's guess."

Since 53½ million of that oil windfall a year ago was used in this fiscal year's operating budget, the state is expected to start next fiscal year about 50 million in the hole—if not more.

State agencies are drafting their budgets for the 1960-61 fiscal year. Most agencies have completed their budgets, but not all.

NBC's "World Wide 60" from 9:30 to 10:30 is devoted to "The Missile Race: Time For Decision" Examination of the current competition between the U.S. and Russia.

Area Increase Is Reported In Flu Cases

accompanied by high fever, nausea and aches.

Numerous patients in Winn Parish have been stricken for a period of a week.

Apparently lighter hit are the parishes of Franklin and Richland to the northeast.

Numerous colds and "walking cases of flu" were reported prevalent in Franklin, while Richland had "some cases but apparently light."

Lincoln Parish had previously reported that more than 60 students and 35 to 40 teachers have been stricken during the past two weeks.

Madison and Ouachita parishes have reported illness and absenteeism running above normal.

Mannequins Affected By Style Change

NEW YORK (UPI)—Where the female form's concerned, Simon Wolf knows a good measure.

For 55 years, Wolfe's company has been making the assorted model forms on which designers put together clothes to cover all types—and sizes — of womanly shapes.

His studio is filled with armless, legless, headless forms—some dating from 1905. Some of the forms are of famous women whose dressmakers have ordered body casts of their high - paying clients.

To show what fashion's done to the female silhouette over the years, Wolfe hauls out three forms—one from 1905, one from 1921 and one from 1959.

The 1921 one looks anything but female. The torso that year, according to Wolfe's documentary proof, featured a flat chest.

The vital statistics for that torso: 35½, 29 and an ample 39 in the hips.

A view of the 1905 form is a study in contrast.

"Now there was a woman," said Wolfe.

Her waist was cinched with a laced corset. The tight lacing displaced waist tissue, fat and organs, shoving them into the rib cage. This gave the chest a robust — but definitely feminine—look.

Hips — padded, if necessary—were accentuated. The vital statistics give some idea of the "womanly look"—36½, 24, and a very ample 42½ in the hips.

The contemporary woman, preserved for history by Wolfe's torso makers, has an uplifted, sharply accented bosom. She has slimmed the hips. The dimensions: 37, 27½, and 38½.

Except for the slimmer hips, the contemporary woman isn't much different from the Gibson Girl figure of the early 1900's, Wolfe figures.

Quantitatively, the three forms look like they could be squeezed into the same size. But the first, 1905, wore what was called a size 34. The second, 1921, wore a 12; the third, 1959, wore a good round 16.

Through the years, says Wolfe, the only consistent thing about the sizing situations has been the inconsistency in standardizing sizes.

Back in 1910, Wolfe said, a size 16 had a 29 inch waist. Today, a size 16 has either a 26 or a 23 inch waist—all depending on the way a particular maker of dresses figures.

To add to the confusion, there are regulars, shorts, talls, petites, dimunitives, and half-sizes.

Joan Benny Gives Time To Charity

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack Benny's daughter, Joan, is the apple of the old man's eye these days as she goes about Hollywood drumming up money.

Joan, the mother of two children, is running around town calling on folks to create interest in "Some Like It Hot." Some proceeds from the picture will be donated to her charity organization, Share, Inc.

Benny's daughter is a member of the group that includes Anne Sterling, Janet Leigh, Lucille Ball, Jo Stafford, Barbara Rush, Shelia MacRae and the wives of such stars as Dean Martin, Guy Madison, Robert Mitchum, Milton Berle and Howard Keel.

Joan never followed dad and mom into show business, and the folks never attempted to influence her in that direction.

936 Ouachita Voters Fail To Use Rights

A total of 936 Ouachita Parish residents failed to use their right to vote during the last four years. Voters here now number 25,285.

Names of persons automatically removed from voting lists were published this week in the Monroe News-Star. All named are white.

A check with Mrs. Mae Lucky, registrar of voters, revealed that state law says a voter must vote at least once durin each four years. If he fails to do so, his name must be removed from voting lists.

Letters were sent out recently to all 936 whose registration cards showed no voting in 4 years. Approximately 200 letters were returned as unclaimed. More than 200 persons have re-registered.

"Probably a great number will come in between now and March 19, to re-register," Mrs. Lucky forecast.

Ouachita now has 25,006 white and 723 Negro voters.

CLOSE

Registration books close at 5 p.m. on March 19, 30 days before the April 19 general election. "I hope they all don't wait until the last four days to try to register," she commented.

A person's name may be automatically removed from voting rolls for two reasons:

1. Failure to vote during four years.
2. Moving without notifying the Registrar of the new address.

"We were supposed to check through the registration cards last November, to see who hadn't voted during the last four years. But we waited, to give everyone a chance to vote in the December and January primaries," the registrar said.

If a voter's name is removed from the registration roll, he must make an enteirely new application to re-register. He also must bring proof that he has resided in Ouachita parish for at least one year.

Burglary Suspect Is Booked Here

A New Orleans man was booked here last night on burglary charges after he was transferred to the Monroe police department from Sheriff authorities in Dahnville.

Chief James C. Kelly Jr. identified the man as William W. Earl 28, New Orleans.

He was charged in connection with a recent series of burglaries that have plagued Monroe police during the past several weeks, Chief Kelly said.

Earl was transferred to the Ouachita Parish jail yesterday, where he was being held without bond.

A 17-year old Monroe youth was arrested yesterday by Monroe police and charged with aggravated battery.

He was identified as Donald Lee Cotton, 611 Avoylle street. Bond was set at $100.

Jet Crashes Into Home And Kills Airmen

DENVER (UPI) — A T-33 jet training plane crashed into a home in southeast Denver Friday and exploded, killing both men aboard.

One of the men in the plane ejected himself from the cockpit seconds before the crash but he was too low and his parachute failed to open.

A maid in the house that was hit escaped as flames gutted it. She was working in the basement when the plane struck and suffered only a minor cut on one arm.

The explosion ripped part of the roof off the house next door, which is unoccupied. A wheel from the landing gear lodged in the roof of a home two doors away, where 11-year-old Phillip Singer lay ill with flu.

The plane crashed while attempting a landing at Lowry Air Force Base, a few blocks to the east, plowing into the rear of the home of Ed Newhagen, 39, a widower, and his two children, Jean, 17, and John, 13, none of whom was home.

IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS

Street Program Outlined For City

Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez yesterday outlined a program Monroe is following for street improvement, in addition to the projects already underway and completed.

Rodriguez said letters had been mailed to property owners on Pearl and Mouton streets announcing the city's intention to improve:

1. Pearl, from Thomas St. to Mouton.
2. Mouton, from Pearl to Jackson.

The matter is expected to be brought before the City Council in Tuesday's regular meeting and a protest hearing set.

PETITIONS

Meantime, petitions are being circulated on Benton St. and Bres Ave. for improvements jobs, taking in Benton, from S. Grand to Jackson, and Bres, from N. 8th to N. 9th.

Rodriguez explained that a second letter had been mailed to property owners on Filhiol and McGuire for improvement projects. Asphalt overlay is planned for the job.

Under this type program, property owners are assessed for the job.

On other streets, the city plans:

1. To improve Harrison and Spurgeon, where property owners have approved changes to convert the streets into one - way traffic.

2. To convert S. 3rd and S. 4th streets into one - way streets.

Rodriguez explained that improvements on the latter two streets were scheduled, but would probably come after the completion of the proposed underpass at S. 2nd Street.

He pointed out that traffic would be re - routed over S. 3rd and S. 4th while the underpass was in the process of being constructed.

Kefauver Faces Fight

Conservatives in Tennessee are perturbed over the fact that not only are both of the senators of that state far to the left but that both of them seem to be drifting even further into the ranks of the radical-liberals. Because of this, a movement has been launched to try to unseat Senator Estes Kefauver, whose position will be the only one at issue in this year's election.

Announcement of Circuit Judge Andrew T. "Tip" Taylor of Jackson as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the senate post held by Kefauver was welcomed by many conservative leaders in Tennessee.

This race will be watched with a great deal of interest by citizens of states in the deep south, since election of Taylor would mean additional strength for the south's causes, such as the fight against integration and the so-called "civil rights" measures. Defeat of Senator Kefauver would be welcomed by a large percentage of the people in these states.

The seat held by Senator Albert Gore is not open in the coming election but if it were the conservatives would put up a strong battle to defeat him because he has become even more of a left-winger than Kefauver. For some years, Senator Gore hung on the fringes of the extreme leftwing or socialist group of Democrats but recently he has taken stands which have placed him difinitely in their camp. He is so far to the left that he completely betrays the interests of the south and works against the congressmen of the southern states, instead of with them.

Senator Kefauver's leftism seems to be about parallel to that of Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee for president in the last two elections. In each of the last two Democratic conventions Kefauver was a contender against Stevenson for the presidential nomination and in the 1956 convention Senator John F. Kennedy was also a strong contender. After losing out in his presidential bid in 1956, Kefauver was nominated for vice-president and ran on the ticket headed by Stevenson. Kefauver is not likely to be given any serious consideration in the next convention as a presidential nominee but may try again for the vice-presidential nomination.

This gives some idea of the task faced by the Tennessee conservatives in trying to unseat Senator Kefauver in the coming election. Nevertheless, Tennessee leaders who believe in states' rights, constitutional government and southern tradition have hopes of doing just that and they think Judge Taylor may be the man who can do it.

Ray Longmire, president of the Shelby County (Tenn.) Farm Bureau, said: "I am very glad to hear of Judge Taylor's announcement. I think he represents the feeling of the people of Tennessee much better than Senator Kefauver has. This is my personal reaction."

A. I. Davies, president of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, pointed out his organization's by-laws forbid it to take part in politics, but added: "You may say that I personally am delighted by Judge Taylor's announcement."

Bert Bates, former United States marshal and a leader in state American Legion circles, said: "As state commissioner of institutions and as circuit judge, 'Tip' Taylor has hung up a splendid record of public service.

Favoring Kefauver are organized labor officials, Negro leaders and state women's voter league official. The labor union and Negro attitude was to be expected, since both groups can be expected to support radicals.

In his enthusiasm for national office, Senator Kefauver may have largely forgotten to take into account the wishes of his constituents. Whether they will resent this enough to defeat him is a question that only the election can answer.

'Moscow Resident' Auto

Because of the "altered atmosphere which followed Premier Nikita Khrushchev's American trip," an American automobile firm has bought 10,000 Russian cars. Russia moved into the American small car market with a contract to sell 10,000 "Moskvich" sedans.

The Moskvich, which literally means "Moscow Resident," is the Soviet Union's economy car, generally selling in Moscow for 25,000 rubles ($6,250 at the official rate, $2,500 at the more realistic tourist rate.)

If Khrushchev's visit changed the atmosphere in the United States enough to make the people of this country want to buy an economy "Moscow Resident" at prices like that he accomplished a miracle.

All kinds of economy cars are being produced in the United States and many other countries at prices below the $2,500 figure, which is called the realistic price. Doubtless, most of them are as good or better than the Russian vehicle.

If the Russians have to pay what amounts to $6,250 for the lowest-priced car produced in their country, at the low rate of pay most of them receive, it is no wonder that few Russian citizens can afford to buy them.

The first batch of 5,000 "Moscow Residents" will be shipped to the United States next summer, with the others to be delivered within two years.

It will be recalled that during the war with Japan and for some years afterward no goods were sold in the United States bearing the words "Made in Japan." There was too much sentiment against Japan and this feeling continued until after Japan had been under United States protection for many months.

Khrushchev's visit to the United States may have eased the tension between the two countries to some extent but it certainly did not erase the strong suspicion on the part of most people in this country that Russia is still bent on conquest and that it regards the United States as the principal obstacle in its path.

Most people in the United States are not willing to support the financial and industrial growth of the Soviet Union. They are hardly willing to drive a car called "Moscow Resident."

Medical science faces a wily adversary in the form of the influenza virus, which remains a scourge despite all the tricks of modern immunology. Fortunately, public health officials expect the current outbreak to be somewhat lighter than the 1957 epidemic which struck some 15 million to 20 million Americans.

The illness has a long history under a variety of names. The Italians of the 17th century ascribed it to the influence of the stars, and hence the name "influenza." Sittings of the Paris law courts had to be suspended in 1403 and 1557 during a flu epidemic, and in 1427 sermons had to be abandoned in London because of the coughing and sneezing.

All previous visitations of influenza were dwarfed by the world pandemic in 1918; within a few months 10 million to 21 million lives were lost. As one medical researcher put it: "Although the world has a vast influenza clinic and morgue, little therapeutic information was gained."

Strike's Purpose Vague

Original Reason For Picketing Restaurant Is Withdrawn Without Any New Demand But Walk Continues

Usually the purpose of a picket line is to keep people out of a place because the workers are on strike. Many people will not cross a picket line. This is an abnegation of reason to mass pressure.

The Stork Club in New York, a famous restaurant and saloon, has been picketed since January 8, 1957. I occasionally go to this place and cross the picket line because nobody is going to make decisions for me. I have, on several occasions, asked a picket what it is all about but never received an intelligent answer, perhaps the union or the police forbidding prolonged conversations between pickets and customers.

I resent being told what to do by a fellow whose mumblings do not represent a high degree of intelligence. Now I am altogether confused. The case came into court before Judge Archie O. Dawson, a very able Federal judge. On the witness stand was Arduilio Susi, president of Local 89, Chefs, Cooks, Pastry Cooks and Assistants Union. Susi has been an official of that union for 21 years. Susi said that the Stork Club strike was originally called "that the employer should recognize these people and the union as the collective bargaining agent for these people so that we can establish wages and conditions which are prevailing throughout the city. I think that is all."

However, since the passage of the Landrum-Griffin Bill, the unions have decided that they should not picket for union recognition. Susi testified:

"We were advised that under the law we are not permitted to continue to picket the same way as we had done in the past. We did not ask for recognition any longer because it was against the law, and we were advised that in order to lawfully continue to picket, we were told that this is the only way we can do it.

"Q. Were you told that you had to withdraw your demand for recognition and bargaining?

"A. Correct, sir, and make a statement of the fact. We sent one to the National Labor Relations Board and one to (Sherman) Billingsley that we do not seek recognition."

This colloquy occurred which tells what is likely to happen all over the country:

"The court: One of these picket signs says, 'The Stork Club does not have a contract with the Chefs, Cooks, Pastry Cooks and Assistants Union.'

"Why should the public be informed of that unless you want a contract? Do you want to have a contract with him?

"The witness: No, sir, we want him to pay the wages, and have the same protections and same benefits.

"The court: In order to do that, you want the employes to enter into a contract with the union?

"The witness: No, sir.

"The court: Why does it make any difference to the people whether they have a contract or not?

"The witness: To notify the public that that house is not a union house.

"The court: What is a union house?

"The witness: A union house is where the wages and conditions are prevailing.

"The court: And are fixed by contract, is that right, by the union?

"The witness: That is right.

"The court: You want to tell the public that they don't have a contract with the union?

"The witness: That is correct.

"The court: One of the things you want them to do is make a contract, isn't it, so that you would prevail?

"The witness: No, sir, we are not permitted under the law to sign a contract, so we are picketing to inform the public that this house has no contract with the local union and they are not a fair employer and whatever he wants to do he can do it . . .

"The court . . . Why do you say the employes don't have a contract on the picket sign unless you want them to get a contract?

"The witness: No.

"The court: You don't want them to get a contract?

"The witness: No, sir."

This goes on for pages of testimony. It is apparent from this that the settlement of a strike now becomes increasingly difficult. The union dares not say that it desires a new contract and is striking for it; the employer has to guess what the union really wants.

Imports Of Ideas

Arkansas Senator Fulbright Denies Basic Law Of Matter

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has, in a manner of speaking, defied the basic Law of Conservation of Matter. This is the principle which, if my prep school science still holds good, maintains that nothing new comes into the universe and nothing goes out, although much may change.

Well, in the limited province of his Committee, the Arkansas Senator has torn up this stand-pat axiom, for he is bringing in large supplies of intellectual matter — called ideas — from the outside. First as executive chairman of a subcommittee, and later as the head man, Fulbright has applied close to $500,000 of public money to the public good by purchasing 15 custom - made "studies" of pertinent subjects.

As an importer of knowledge, Fulbright appears to me to be an example of a builder-upper for our side, at a time when so many statesmen feel it their duty to be tearer - downers. The opinion was recently offered in this column that practically all of the 1960 candidates are in some manner bent on diminishing the Free World — writing off Quemoy-Matsu, consigning Cuba to near-Communism under Castro, expending American topsoil by dumping suplus crops overseas and surrendering judicial sovereignty to the World Court.

But a man who brings new thinking into as potent a committee as Foreign Relations, breaching the walls of parochialism behind which Senators often sit immured, not caring if the thinking fits anybody's party line — such a man is a good public servant. This Mr. Fulbright has done. It is a fact that ideas are what make the world go around. By the end of this session, as the 15 studies begin to circulate, we should have a new top-spin on our international thinking.

For example, Study Number 2 says that we ought not allow science in the 1960's to take us for a buggy-ride. By asserting ourselves, we could change the plaintive query, "Where is Technology Leading us?" to the affirmative viewpoint of "Where Shall we lead Technology?" These thoughts are explored, not in an esoteric vacuum, but in hard terms of what synthetic materials, what crops, what kinds of industrial power, what sort of school courses should be developed to promote American self-interests. Why not be, in sum, masters of our fate?

Study Number 1 is a good antidote to current calamity howling. The Free World is said to contain three - fourths of the income and two - thirds of the people on earth, and to have a 3 to 1 advantage in economic resources over the Communist bloc. Our mistake, as Fulbright pointed out in what is widely considered the best Senate floor speech of 1959, is that we insist on using our concrete for swimming pools and our chrome for tail - fins instead of contributing vital material and man - hours to the struggle for national life.

By 1970, the USSR's gross national product will be up by 130 per cent, ours by only 70 per cent. Senator Lausche, who has nearly devoured these studies, tells me that a still - unpublished report will highlight reasons for the Russian pace. The Soviet system sends only 6 to 8 per cent of college age youth to college, whereas we sent 25 per cent. Yet Russia ends up getting twice as many graduating engineers and scientists — by requiring 60-70 per cent of the students to major in the appropriate subjects.

Throughout all the studies there runs, if I read them right, one thread of meaning — that the future holds fast, furious, irrepressible change! Neither in worldwide application, nor in individual nations, nor in friend and foe, nor in science and industry, do we dare assume that things will be, a few years hence, what they are today.

These studies warn us to harness the dynamic mutations to our own purposes. When a revolution breaks out, such as the one in Algeria, we should take swift advantage of it. Since the Communists may turn again to warlike methods, we should make the enormously superior Free World economy give us a war machine which is equally superior to that of the enemy.

Also, throughout the studies, runs one brooding question. If it comes to a choice between prosperity and preparedness, between winning the Cold War by a suspension of liberties or losing it by clinging to them — how shall we say?

Well, the Fulbright Committee provides the food for these solemn thoughts.

Weight Too High

Woman Tipping Scales At 220 To 230 Is Always Fatigued

We doctors say: "Better lose some weight." We tell you how important it is for your health and your appearance. We tell you how to go about it.

The rest is really up to you. But experience has taught us that weight reduction can be a frustrating problem for many unhappy persons. For example, consider this letter:

'Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have read your column many times and have noticed that you are understanding in answering letters from readers. But I wonder if even you can understand how it feels to be 37 years old and weigh between 220 and 230 pounds?

"I think only a fellow sufferer knows. Most people just laugh when you say you are going on a diet. They just tell you to do what the doctor says.

"Every morning I feel as though it is just another day to be endured. Deep in my heart I know that it is wonderful to be alive; and that there is so much of good in living. There are so many interesting things to do. But all I feel like doing is resting.

"I have three little ones under four and a half to take care of besides my husband and two teen - agers. It has gotten so that my husband does much of my work because I just can't get it done.

"I must be dragging an extra 100 pounds around with every step I take. If I do the cooking, and dishes and even take halfway care of the kids I'm fagged out.

"We have had some serious problems but I realize that my main problem is 'me.' I have no confidence in myself. I just can't carry through with things that I know need to be done.

"If affects my church work as well as the things I plan at home. I truly believe that my present trouble is due to having failed so many times with my dieting. I seem to have lost something more than confidence.

"I am not alone in this. I have a friend who becomes terribly despondent. She is afraid that she is losing her friends because she weighs more than 200.

"When we feel this terrible, why can't we do something? We well know that the overweight can kill us and leave our children motherless, but we are truly slaves, and feel trapped. Please, Dr. Steincrohn, if you can help us in any way do so. There must be hundreds like us. Mrs. X., Muncie, Ind."

COMMENT: You may change your mind about my being understanding when you read what I am about to say. But it's for your own good.

In your case, Mrs. X., self-pity has taken over. You want a magic formula that will replace will power. There isn't one. The job is yours and yours alone (with your doctor on the periphery advising you and cheering you on.)

If you really want to do something about it, first stop feeling so sorry for yourself. Here is what I suggest. Go to a sympathetic family doctor who is really interested in weight reduction. See him periodically.

Check up on your thyroid (although in most cases of obesity this gland is not the rascal most people think it is). Your doctor will give you some "appetite deadener" pills to help start you off on the long road of reducing.

Scout around in your city for a "reducing club." Many stubborn cases I recall began to lose only after they joined other fellow sufferers in an organized attack on excess fat.

You will also find some good points in my leaflet: "How To Overcome Obesity." Write to me, c-o this newspaper, enclose 10 cents in a stamped, self - addressed envelope. Best of luck!

SYLVIA PORTER

'Ghost's' Policy

Man Who Delivers Speech Often Doesn't Know Its Meaning

The voice of the high-I. Q., high-powered, high - priced public relations adviser that came over the phone was enthusiastic. "I'm sending down a speech on foreign economic policy that's a smasher," said he. "So-and-so (he named a nationally - known industrialist) is going to deliver it here in New York next week. I've been slaving over it for weeks. Honestly, it says things you and I believe in."

"Fine," said I, "send it down. Does so-and-so believe in it too?"

My friend of many years chuckled. "He'd better. Anyway, he's a good guy, and after he delivers this, he'll defend the views."

I chuckled also as I hung up. Then I picked up the current issue of a business monthly, "Dun's Review," turned toward the waste paper basket and started thumbing through. Suddenly my eye stopped at the top of page 39.

"Take the ghost - written speech," I read.

"I say that if the executive cannot write his own speech, let him make none. If he is tongue-tied in public, it is because he is tongue - tied in private; he simply has nothing of significance to say . . .

"Let him stand up and say to an audience precisely what he said to his seatmate on the 8:04 that morning or what he said to his associates at lunch . . . It is the views of the man himself the public seeks to probe, not those of his script technician . . ."

At that instant, the real significance of the conversation I'd just had with my public relations friend fell into focus. Clarence B. Randall, a thoughtful industrialist who retired as head of Inland Steel Co. to become a world-respected economic consultant to the Government, had had the coursage to pinpoint a profound lack among many of our industrial leaders today. He had also helped explain why, despite all their efforts to "communicate," so many of our top businessmen are not getting their story through to the worker, the stockholder, the customer, etc. Here's Randall's theme and I shall not "paint the lily" he hands us via the pages of "Dun's Review."

American industrialists today, says he, have an irresistible urge to "communicate." Randall thinks that's fine — as long as the things businessmen say are "wise and true."

Take the customer. "At the top of our voices, we cry our wares . . . but to promise one product and deliver another of inferior quality or with an undisclosed price component is sheer chicanery."

Take the worker. "We tell him earnestly and repetitively that his interest parallels ours and that what we do is well calculated to raise his standard of living, but we need to know whether, within his own frame of reference, he can accept our statements as reflecting full integrity of purpose . . . Here actions speak . . ."

Take the stockholder. "We entice him to the annual meeting with every blandishment at our command . . . but when it comes to the exercise of the prerogatives of ownership, we do not vouchsafe him the opportunity of making even one little cross on a piece of paper once a year in token recognition of the fact that we work for him."

Take the government at every level. "We hardly communicate at all in our own right. We turn all that over to our trade association . . . which communicates . . . only the lowest common denominator of opinion."

What Randall is crying out for is CONVICTION on the part of his fellow industrialists — beliefs that come after the businessman has taken the time to think, re-evaluate and restate this system's purposes and aims. It is a message every American should ponder well!

(P. S. My friend did write a great speech on foreign economic policy for his client. Wouldn't it have been even greater if it had come from the mind and heart of the man who'll deliver it!)

Tornado Damage Is Estimated

THIBODAUX, La. (AP)—Richard C. Plater Jr., Lafourche Parish Civil Defense director, yesterday estimated damages from the tornado which struck near here two days ago may reach $175,000.

Five homes were destroyed, several others damaged, and a $100,000 oil drilling derrick was knocked over. A total of 36 persons were left homeless.

Daily Devotional

Honor the Lord with thy substance. — Proverbs 3:9.

Some people give, no doubt, hoping that they will receive credit in the "Heavenly book of life". Others give openly and ostentatiously that men may speak well of them. One cannot discount the usefulness of such gifts, but it is far better when people donate in thankfulness for what the Almighty has done for them. God forbid that we be charitable in the hope of assuring ourselves "full barns". If this should be so, one might expect to eventually hear the voice of God saying, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee!"

Heavenly Father may we honor Thee by giving willingly and generously of the good things Thou has given us. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

POLL TAX

Week's Activity In Senate Told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate approved this week a three-barreled suffrage amendment to the Constitution and sent it to an uncertain fate in the House. The vote was 70 to 18.

The amendment would, if approved by a two-thirds vote of the House and by three-fourths of the 50 states:

—Outlaw the state poll tax as a voting requirement in federal elections. Elections for local, county and state offices would not be affected.

—Give the District of Columbia's 850,000 voteless citizens the right to vote for President and Vice President and to choose non-voting delegates to the House of Representatives.

—Give state governors the power to fill House vacancies should more than half the members perish in an atomic attack or other disaster.

Only five states still impose the poll tax. They are Texas, Virginia, Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas.

The levy down through the years has been portrayed as a device to prevent southern Negroes from voting. The federal Civil Rights Commission reported last year that it is no longer very important. It said "far more sophisticated" ways had been found to keep Negroes away from the polls.

Nonetheless the issue was difficult for non-southern senators to vote against in an election year even though it contains elements offensive to their southern colleagues.

President Eisenhower endorsed all three points as "making good sense." House members quickly raised three obstacles.

These included the time element. Congress is driving for a short session to clear the election campaign decks. Second, the House traditionally resents Senate initiation of legislation to fill House vacancies. And finally, package treatment of three different proposals.

The House Judiciary Committee will handle the amendment. Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) said he would try to hold hearings on it but not until the House passes his racial rights bill. This may take time.

In its original form, as sponsored by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), the amendment dealt only with House vacancies. The District of Columbia rider was pushed by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.). A southerner, Sen. Spessard L. Holland (D-Fla.), tacked on the poll tax proviso and roused the ire of Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) who spearheaded a last-ditch attack of Dixie opponents.

The Senate authorized state Legislatures to accept each amendment separately rather than on a "take all" basis.

Ironically the poll tax was first used in the Colonial era to give ordinary citizens voting rights enjoyed exclusively by land owners. In the early 1800s most of the states abolished the tax but it was resurrected in the 1890s and 1900s by the southern states.

Since 1929 Ecuador has had a child labor law and an eight hour labor law.

NAM Job Is Industry And People

NEW YORK (AP) — Rudolph Bannow, the little business man who heads the giant National Assn. of Manufacturers, thinks one of NAM's biggest jobs is to give industry a better understanding of people.

Bannow's firm, Bridgeport Machines, Inc., has never had a strike. Its 400 employes are non-unionized. Union attempts to gain a foothold have failed.

Moreover, Bridgeport Machines has raised the price of its chief product, a turret milling machine, only once in 20 years.

Bannow explains he has avoided more price hikes by increased mechanization, but adds: "at our plant everybody does a full day's job. There's no featherbedding."

Bannow first became interested in the NAM about 10 years ago. He went to a NAM seminar where he heard a Sears, Roebuck official explain that company's famous profit-sharing plan.

Bannow copied this plan, making some changes, for his own company. A combined profit-sharing and pension program, it started seven years ago. The average Bridgeport Machines employe now has a $9,000 nest egg in the plan.

Bannow, 62, is a white-haired, stocky Swede. He does not smoke and says, "I've never had a drink in my life."

Mostly, his leisure time is taken up with community projects. He does get together with a male chorus in Bridgeport once a week, singing first bass.

"We're moving into a one world economy," Bannow says, "and industry and labor must work together to offset the disadvantage we have in this country with our much higher labor costs."

Bannow likes to make speeches, a pleasure which will come in handy for an NAM president. He has been on the job only since the start of this year.

As a speechmaker, Bannow rambles on from a few notes. He remarks somewhat ruefully, "I'll have to be a little more careful now. Because someone will be taking it down."

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Gay Humberstone, bride of lawyer Sinclair Robinson, faces a court fight with her ex-husband, film director "Lucky" Humberstone, when she attempts to get custody of her son. "Lucky" promises friends he'll "throw the book at her." Gay's current spouse made cafe society history a few seasons back when he was Hope Hampton's fiance . . . A hot rumor in the recording business has the Everly Brothers leaving Cadence to go with Victor. There's supposed to be $1,000,000 involved in the switch, if it happens . . . The war for topflight attractions is so desperate among the Miami Beach Hotel owners that Morris Lansburgh, who owns a chain there gave Phil Silvers a piece of one his places to entice him into opening at the Deauville.

John Huston's appraisal of Jean Paul Sartre after their visit in Ireland was interesting if a trifle puzzling. The American director said of the French playwright: "That guy talked my head off. But what a man! He has some special pep pills which are supposed to be taken twice a week. He gobbled six of them every day." . . . Grace Metalious is reported sizzling with anger because she wrote a part for her husband in her new "Peyton Place" flicker, but producer Jerry Wald wouldn't go for the idea. (That, kiddies, is why he owns a brown Rolls Royce.)

Bassist Oscar Pettiford, who already has a son named Cello, plans to call his new twin daughters (born in Paris) Cellina and Celeste . . . David Merrick's feud with Philadelphia critic Jerry Gaghan — Merrick wouldn't let him in when he arrived late for the opening of "The Good Soup" —is reminiscent of the good old days when Broadway was more colorful and the Shuberts used to bar such journalistic luminaries as Walter Winchell and Leonard Lyons from theatrical premieres . . . Hank Greenberg is drawing envious glances from the other fellows these nights. His date is a tall, gorgeous blonde . . . Tuesday Weld's favorite baby - sitter is Lester Pesky, chief of a local ad agency . . .

The master - plan for whitewashing Josephine Baker during her trip to the U. S. to grab some Yankee dollars includes persuading members of other minority groups to "honor" her for her good deeds, and believe it or not, some of them have fallen for it.

Why all the fuss over Jack Paar's fondness for Fidel Castro? He hasn't even hung around the pool with Nikita Khrushchev, but months ago —on his TV show — he made it dramatically clear that he preferred the Red murderer to any American who might describe Khrushchev and his wife in even slightly unflattering terms . . .

Attention all performers and celebrities: The American Legion is trying to get entertainers to cover all 38 wards of the Veterans Administration Hospital at 1st Ave. and 24th St. on March 16 between 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Most of the 1,130 patients are not ambulatory, and cannot attend a show in the auditorium, so the entertainment will have to go to them. Even famous personalities who can't sing, dance or do comedy will be welcome, as they can distribute gifts to the servicemen. I'll be there, doing just that . . . Sammy Davis Jr. just accepted a London engagement in May. He'll star for four weeks at the Club Pigalle.

Sacha Distel, who used to make Brigitte Bardot's heart beat faster, has found a new thrill, Swedish actress Danik Patisson, a golden - haired dazzler of 23. Sacha's arranged for her to make her cinema bow as his leading lady in the movie "Les Mordus" . . .

Syndicated columnist Ralph Schoenstein and his pretty bride are knitting tiny garments . . . Bert Thorne, who had a substantial part and featured billing in "Goodbye Charlie" when it started its tryout tour was one of those axed before the Broadway opening. But he had a run-of-the-play contract, so he collects his full salary every week and doesn't have to bother about showing up at the theatre . . . Suzy Parker's chic clothes on the TV special "The Fabulous Fifties" were done by a talented but little known designer named George Halley.

It didn't take long for the guests at the Montmartre Hotel in Miami Beach to identify the beauty registered — and quite properly — as Mrs. Floyd Chulkey, even though she wore dark glasses. The redhead is better known to the public as Susan Hayward of the movies . . .

Have some impressive statistics: Pat Boone, although only 25, has sold 25,000,000 records in five years.

Immunization Drive Slated For Franklin

WINNSBORO (Special) — An intensive drive to immunize more persons against polio in the adult and pre - school age groups was announced this week by Dr. A. J. Reynolds, Director of the Franklin Parish Health Unit.

"We are especially worried about the pre - school group" said Dr. Reynolds, "because 65 per cent of the paralytic cases of polio reported occured in the one to five year old age group."

"A survey of persons immunized against polio in Franklin parish shows that we are very low in the 15 to 40 age group," Dr. Reynolds futher explained.

A special clinic will be held each Monday from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Health Unit in Winnsboro, to give day workers an opportunity to receive their shots.

Regular immunization clinics will be continued at the following places and hours:

Winnsboro — Tuesday, 1 to 4 p.m. Wisner — Thursday, 1 to 4 p.m. Gilbert — 2nd and 4th Thursdays, 9 to 11 a.m. Crowville —1st and 3rd Thursdays, 9 to 11 a.m. Mt. Zion — 1st and 3rd Tuesdays, 9 to 11 a.m.

Negotiators On Railways Mark Time

CHICAGO (UPI) — Railroad negotiators marked time Friday awaiting government mediators' moves in wage disputes involving firemen and switchmen and establishment of an arbitration board to make a decision in the engineer's wage case.

The Carriers and the Switchmen's Union of North America recessed their money talks under National (railway) Mediation Board (NMB) supervision Friday, emptying bargaining conference rooms for the first time in weeks.

Charles M. Doolin, mediator, said the two sides "wanted to see what's going to happen" in view of a decision Thursday by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to accept binding arbitration.

However, Neil P. Speirs, president of the Switchmen's Union, said in Buffalo, N.Y., that the union was going ahead with circulation of a strike ballot to the 12,000 workers it represents.

When the strike vote returns are in, Speirs said, he will request the mediation board to relinquish jurisdiction, paving the way for probable appointment of a emergency fact - finding board which could recommend but not enforce settlement terms.

Speirs indicated his union members would not accept arbitration and would insist on negotiating their own settlements. He pointed out that the switchmen are hourly paid and engineers are paid on a mileage basis.

A spokesman for 16 unions representing 600,000 non - operating (off - train) employes said those groups will press separate negotiations without awaiting an engineers' award. He said the wage decision to be handed down in the engineers' case would not set a pattern for the non - operating unions.

"It is only when men begin to worship that they begin to grow," said Calvin Coolidge in 1922.

Nerve Gas Storage Not Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Byron L. Johnson (D-Colo) said today there is probably less than one in a million chance of disaster because of deadly nerve gas stored near Denver, Colo.

But he said nevertheless he is looking into the Army's ultimate plans for handling the accumulation he described earlier as enough "to kill every man, woman and child in the world."

Johnson said he wants to discuss the issue with other Colorado members, then may ask the Army for a statement whether it intends to provide underground storage or possibly dispose of the gas, which is no longer being manufactured.

Johnson told a reporter the gas, in metal casks, is now stored outdoors, scattered over several acres of the grounds of the Rocky Mountain Arsenal, about eight miles from downtown Denver.

"You would almost have to have a plane crash right in the area involved to have a disaster," Johnson said. "There are other favorable factors — the prevailing wind blows away from Denver and space itself is a safety factor, providing time to take precautions."

Johnson said the Army had assured him it had plans to cope with an emergency and that he had not pressed for a spelling out of these plans.

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT
(Ass't. Vice President, Government Relations Division of the National Association of Manufacturers.)

WASHINGTON (Special) — If the present trend toward federal aid continues unchecked, you may before long be sending out an SOS to Uncle Sam whenever you need a baby sitter.

This tendency toward expecting Uncle Sam to do almost everything is directly involved in pending legislation to provide federal funds for school construction and teachers' salaries and for combatting juvenile delinquency.

States' righters who favor "bringing government back home" oppose both proposals on the ground that states and localities are better able to grapple with such local problems than is a federal bureaucracy in Washington.

Pending are multi - billion - dollar proposals to send money from Washington back to the states — whose citizens paid it originally through taxation — to help meet the costs of education.

PASSED

And the Senate already has passed—and sent to the House—a measure to authorize $25 million of federal funds over a five-year period to aid states and localities deal with the problem of juvenile delinquency.

Opponents warned that the juvenile delinquency measure was a "foot-in-the-door" and could be expected to snowball into a vast federal program that would cost untold millions.

The real solution, it was contended, lies in the home, the school, and the church—and not in a federal appropriation.

Passage of the bill, by Senators Hill (D-Ala.) and Clark (D-Pa.), was by voice vote— with only four Senators present.

As for federal aid for education, a group of 23 Senators spearheaded a drive to more than double the amount approved by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee for school construction—and also to provide funds for teachers salaries.

The committee last year authorized $500 million a year for two years for school construction.

Now, the 23 Senators headed by Senator Clark offered an amendment to increase the amount to $25 per year for each child or school age—at an estimated cost of $1.1 billion for the first year.

Under the amendment, the program would continue indefinitely and the states would be completely free to divide up the funds as they saw fit between school construction and teachers' salaries.

This amendment was patterned after a bill approved last year by the House Education and Labor Committee authorizing $4.5 billion over the next four years for both school construction and teachers' salaries.

The House bill has been bottled up ever since in the Rules Committee. If anything like it is enacted, opponents would expect President Eisenhower to veto it.

Many conservatives throughout the nation are expressing to Rep. Barden (D-N.C.) the hope that he will change his mind about retiring from Congress after this year.

Slay Motive Mystery In Mississippi

COLUMBUS, Miss. (AP) — A motive in the strangulation - slaying of Mrs. Irwin Tate remained a mystery Friday as investigators declined to give details of murder charges against Jon Nevice Mattox.

Mattox, a 20-year-old junior at Mississippi State University, was arrested and charged last night about two hours after an FBI report on the evidence was returned from Washington.

His family lived next door to the Tate family the past three years in an exclusive residential district.

County Atty. Lowrey Lucas said a preliminary hearing had not been set. He added the hearing might be delayed a week or more.

Mattox has had little to say. At the time of his arrest, he made no statement to police. His father, James L. Mattox, chief engineer for a chemical company near Columbus, visited the boy's basement cell about 10 minutes early today.

Later Friday, after Mattox was moved to an upstairs cell, his 22-year-old brother, James, visited briefly.

Mattox is a tall, strapping youth with dark, crew-cut hair. His major interest, a friend said, has been outdoor life—camping, fishing and hunting.

University officials described him as quiet, and not a mixer. He was majoring in physics. His grades were average.

AT DEMO CONFERENCE

Johnson Camp Hustling Votes

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Supporters of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) openly hustled for national convention votes Friday at the opening of the Western Democratic conference.

The contest, on the fringe of the 13-state meeting, looked to the Far West's 271 votes in Los Angeles—a good one-third of the 761 needed for the presidential nomination.

Sen. John F. Kennedy's (D-Mass) brother Ted, as an advance agent, sought out Rocky Mountain states which are pretty well uncommitted. He said Johnson undoubtedly has more pledged strength generally but that "we have some friends here."

Gov. John Burroughs of New Mexcio spoke warmly of Johnson and said the Senate majority leader has shown a marked increase in Western strength. He attributed it to "a great deal of work behind the scenes of his candidacy."

Johnson hasn't said yes or no to running. A sizable group of Texans, here as invited guests, talked up their senator as though he were an active candidate.

The conference was called to discuss Western issues. But it budgeted speechmaking time for Johnson Friday night and Sen. Hubert H. Humprey (D-Minn) Saturday night. Kennedy has arranged to breakfast with delegates Sunday. He speaks at an Albuquerque rally that afternoon.

Gov. Stephen L. R. McNichols of Colorado told interviewers he was neutral at this point but he referred to Johnson as "a great compromiser and a great man."

McNichols, sometimes mentioned for vice president, described the situation in his state—21 convention votes—as very fluid and said many Westerners are going to wait to see how prospective presidential candidates stand on Western issues before taking a side.

Burroughs said New Mexico—17 votes — traditionally sends uninstructed delegations to the national convention and "I suppose that will be the case this year."

He said, however, Johnson has a lot of strength in New Mexico, followed by Kennedy. Adlai Stevenson? His "hard core" appears to be fading.

The host governor did not mention Humphrey. As for Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) he "is always spoken of here mostly as an afterthought."

C. Girard Davidson, Oregon's national committeeman, reported that Kennedy and Humphrey both have strong organizations in Oregon—17 votes—but he expressed belief Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) would win the May 20 presidential primary there.

British Nigeria in Africa has more than 9,000 square miles of tin fields.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Pontchartrain Bridge Open After Mishap

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 24-mile bridge over Lake Pontchartrain was reopened to traffic Friday. It had been closed eight days since a barge knocked out two 56-foot sections during a heavy fog.

John J. Holtgreve, general manager of the world's longest bridge, said four 56-foot roadway sections and two 96-foot pilings had to be replaced. Fabricated replacement units were on hand for emergency use.

A Jahncke Service, Inc., tugboat out of New Orleans was pushing the barge across the lake Jan. 27 when the barge struck the causeway.

A truck carrying several thousand pounds of groceries was crossing the bridge at the time of the crash when the roadway dropped from under it. The driver stepped on the gas, barely making it to safety on a firm section. Skidmarks from the truck's tires were left on sections that dropped into the lake.

Bridge authorities have filed a $200,000 damage suit against the Jahncke firm and its insurors.

COMMISSIONER MAINTAINS

Conservation Law Should Be Studied

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A careful study should be made of any proposed change in Louisiana's 1940 conservation law, Conservation Commissioner Ashton Mouton said Friday.

The oil and gas executive told the seventh annual Louisiana Mineral Law Institute at Louisiana State University the 1940 law should be bolstered.

But, he added, "we've got to take a real close look at any move to change our conservation act which is just as modern today as when it was adopted 20 years ago."

About 150 oil and gas attorneys from over the state are attending the two-day institute.

Fred Blanche Sr., Baton Rouge, president of the Louisiana State Bar Assn. told delegates the bar has not been active as it should in conducting legal training gatherings such as the mineral law institute.

"If it were not for the law school, the Louisiana Bar would afford little in the way of legal education," Blanche said.

Mouton hailed Act 66 of the 1959 Legislature as the answer to his department's prayer of furnishing better service to state oil and gas interests through hiring more technical help.

Prior to 1959, he said, the conservation department relied solely upon legislative appropriations for operation funds. With passage of Act 66, increased charges for some services were authorized.

UAR Receives Weapons From Soviet Union

LONDON (UPI) — The United Arab Republic has received a total of eight ocean-going submarines and is getting new type Mig-19 jet fighters from the Soviet Union, diplomatic sources reported Friday.

The sources said the new military hardware was coming both from Russia and its Iron Curtain satellites in a steady buildup of Middle Eastern arms by Communist countries.

A similar flow of fresh weapons from the Soviet bloc was reported pouring into Iraq.

The disclosures underscored the potential dangers in the Middle East where Israel and the Syrian section of the U.A.R. have clashed in border troubles this week.

The first indication of the Soviet decision to build up the U.A.R. armed forces despite ideological differences, came 18 months ago when two submarines and a cruiser were sent by the Red bloc.

Since then, the sources said, the buildup has progressed quietly to the present total of eight submarines, plus the new fighter planes.

In a battle the Mig-19s would be a better match against Israel's French-built Super - Mystere jets than the present Migs of the U.A.R.

Chessman's Attorney Makes Plea

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — An attorney for Caryl Chessman, bidding for an 11th hour reprieve from execution for the "red light bandit," argued Friday that a federal judge should not take sole responsibility of deciding his fate.

A. L. Wirin, attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said Chessman should be granted a new full-scale appeal hearing before the full U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, instead of Chief Judge Richard H. Chambers arriving "at a certainty alone."

He said there was a danger of a miscarriage of justice in such action.

Chambers took the motion for a full hearing under submission Friday afternoon and said he would rule Monday. Chessman now is awaiting execution on San Quentin's death row on a 1948 murder-kidnap conviction.

In opposing the motion, Deputy California Attorney General Arlo E. Smith said the basic question was a distinction between rulings on a frivolous appeal and one with probable cause. He said U.S. Supreme Court refusal to review the ruling made it clear they considered the disputed transcript was all right. Smith insisted there was no thought of a hurried decision because the matter had been before the courts for years.

He also contended under California law, Chessman, the convict author, would be subject to the same penalties as he was a dozen years ago.

This was contrary to the earlier argument of George Davis, Chessman's attorney.

Davis also repeated the long - standing contention by Chessman that the transcript of his 1949 trial for kidnap and rape was "illegal, invalid and had no place in the case."

Chambers heard the case here, although the court normally sits in San Francisco, because he is currently presiding in U.S. district court.

Lions Whip Byrd To Escape Cellar

Sparked by the timely floor marksmanship of Harry Crowe and Don Long and the deadly foul shooting of Carl Guinn, Ouachita emerged from the district 1-AAA cellar here Friday night with a 62-58 triumph over Byrd, despite a near-Frank Merriwell finish by the visitor's lanky Joe Abendroth.

The victory elevated the Lions two rungs on the conference ladder into a two-way deadlock with Byrd for third place. Bastrop, beaten by Fair Park, toppled from fourth to fifth position.

With the Lions leading by eight points going into the final quarter, the nimble-footed Abendroth came through with 14 points, 11 of them in the final four minutes of play to make it a skin-tight game at the finish.

Ouachita, which registered its second league win aginst three setbakcs, almost handed the Yellow Jackets the game on a silver platter in the closing moments, throwing away pass after pass which the invaders converted into baskets.

Abendroth, hotter than a Mexican tamale in the last three minutes of play, reeled off seven consecutive points with the help of some shoddy Ouachta ball handling to close the gap to 58-54 going into the final sixty seconds.

Guinn dropped in a layup and Abendroth game back with a two - pointer to keep the four-point spread. Bobby Massingill's charity toss made it 61-56 and Pete Seale closed it to 61-58 on a crip shot with five seconds remaining. Guinn dropped in a foul shot after the whistel to end the scoring.

Guinn, who converted 10 of 12 free throw attempts for the night, topped the Lion scoring with 18 points. Crowe bagged 11 points in the initial half as the hosts built up a 36-27 advantage and finished up with 15. Hitting key baskets in the second half, Long added 13.

Coach Herbert Holliman sent his five starters the distance while the Yellow Jackets played every man on the bench.

Accustomed to a slow start from the gate, the Lions moved into a quick lead on Long's opening three-point play and marked up eight points on the scoreboard in the first minute and a half.

Byrd caught up at 1:20 before the end of the period on Ted Boddie's field goal and it was nip and tuck until the Lions began pulling away midway in the second stanza. Crowe's five points in a row made it 25-18 and the home club walked off the court at halftime with a nine - point margin.

Abendroth, a cool operator inside and out, took game scoring honors with 27 points. Guinn was the top rebounder, hauling down 13.

Ouachita turned in one of its better nights from the floor, netting 22 of 48 field goal attempts for 46 per cent.

Byrd scored a 59-40 decision over the Lion "B" squad in the first game of the night. The junior 'Jackets streaked to a whoppin 15-1 lead in the first quarter and breezed to victory.

Johnny Nolan put in 16 points for the winners while Tim Gordy with 14 and James Cromwell with 12 topped the losers.

The easy victory, Neville's second over Haynesville, gave the local Tigers a 13-12 mark for the season and a 2-3 standing in the district. Neville trails Ruston and Jonesboro - Hodge in the loop race.

Neville's girls defending state AA champions, edged Mangham, 40-35, in the evening's first game.

George Davis' Neville boys took command of their game in the first quarter, jumping into a 13-4 lead, and pushed to a 29-13 lead by halftime. Haynesville, with Neville subs in action, outscored the winners in the third period, 16-14, but could never get into contention.

Three players shared scoring honors in Neville's well- balanced attack. Mike Fettinger, Truett Nolan and Ad Walker all got in points while Gary Johnson got 15 for the losers and Talmadge Nix 11.

Playing without star forward Cecile Menuet, out because of illness, Neville's girls couldn't stop the scoring of Mangham's Frances Johns, who led all pointmakers with 30 points, but managed to take the decision after leading at halftime, 18-13.

Brenda Cobb was tops for Neville with 20 points.

5-0 FOR WINNERS

Tall Bossier Tops Rebs, 50-37, To Up 1-AAA Lead

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

Bossier's tall, talented Bearkats out-defensed West Monroe's stubby Rebels, 50-37, to reach the halfway mark in their drive toward the district 1-AAA championship here Friday night.

Cellar-sharing West Monroe played on nearly even terms with the invaders in the first period and, with reserves in the game for Bossier, outscored them in the fourth period but in between Coach John "Hound" McConathy's cagers wrapped up the victory, No. 5 of the year in six-team district 1-AAA against no defeats.

Bossier had an 11-8 edge at the end of the first period but increased its lead to 29-17 in the second quarter and built up a 20-point bulge in the third, 42-22, before the regulars sat down and watched the Rebels dominate the fourth period.

High - scoring all - state candidate Cecil Upshaw was held to eight points in the game, far below his 17.3 average. The 6-6 center shot rearely and was well defensed.

Max Nix was the top scorer for the winners with 11 points but West Monroe's Oliver Schlutz was the game's top producer with 13 markers. Roy Lee Scroggins contributed 11 points to the Rebel attack.

Bossier's defense won the game. The Bearkats repeatedly blocked the short Rebels' attempts and got the better of the backboard battles.

The victory was Bossier's 33rd of the campaign against three defeats while L. V. Norris' Rebels lost their 16th in 20 decisions. The Confederates are now 1-4 in the district.

The lead jockeyed back and fourth between the two clubs in the early minutes with Scroggins hitting a pair of long push shots to give West Monroe brief advantages of 5-4 and 7-6. Donnie Lewis tied it up for Bossier with a free throw with 3:35 left, 7-7, and then Upshaw put the Bearkats ahead to stay, 9-7 with a layup at 2:02.

The Bearkats went to town in the next two periods, holding the Rebels with a field goal until late in the second and scoring 13 points to West Monroe's five in the third. By that time it was 42-22 and subs finished up.

Bossier didn't have such an easy time of it in the night's "B" game, rallying in the second half to take a 48-44 decision. West Monroe had a 12-10 lead after one period and a 27-21 edge at halftime before the Bearkats took over the lead, 35-31, in the third.

Robert Clifton led Bossier with 21 points while Ricky Fields got 12 and Charles Taylor and Billy Dooerner 10 each for West Monroe.

COMPETITION STRONG

Tribe Trackmen Slate 14 Meets

Northeast's defending champion Gulf States Conference track team, aiming for the completion of a three-year rebuilding program, shoots for national recognition this season with a 14-meet schedule against top flight university competition.

The 1960 slate, released this week by Athletic Director Jack Rowan, will be the toughest in the school's history, pitting Coach Lew Hartzog's thinclads against such powers as Louisiana State University, Houston, Oklahoma, Texas A&M and East Texas State, as well as the usual GSC opposition.

Two meets have been lined up with LSU, against whom the Tribesmen held their own in 1959 competition. On April 2 the Bengals host Northeast and on April 14 Northeast will have the home field advantage.

Northeast will face probably its toughest one-day competition in the April 5 get-together at Houston. East Texas, Texas A&M, Oklahoma, and Houston will supply the opposition. The host Houston club, rated a heavy favorite in the event, grabbed top honors in the Missouri Valley Conference last year.

Oklahoma was second in the Big Eight and East Texas placed second in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics tournament and won the Lone Star Conference title.

Bill Frye is a 5'5" sophomore two-miler. Frye showed great improvement during the cross-country season and placed fifth in the GSC two - mile as a freshman.

Along with the Styrons, Roger Beumer, Dick Hays and Jim Mouser will give Northeast strength in the sprinting department.

Beumer is a 19-year-old sophomore who ran the third leg of the 1959 440 and 880 relays. He had a 9.6 100 and 21.2 220 and is expected to be a top-flight sprinter as a sophomore. Beumer was undefeated his senior year in high school.

Hays is the only senior on the squad. The No. 1 quarter-miler ran 47.9 in the Southern AAU, won the LSU Invitational and was second at the Southwestern Rec Meet. He is a member of the mile - relay team that has won that event in the Sugar Bowl for the past two years.

Mouser is a junior quarter-miler and also a member of the mile- relay squad. He will probably run the 880 much of this season. Hartzog considers him one of his hardest workers and predicts a good year for him.

Other lettermen include Robert Cook and Rich Shovan. Cook is a 6'5" sophomore, a graduate of Jonesboro - Hodge who won the AA discus crown in 1958. A starter on the basketball team, Cook is big and fast, and Hartzog says he has promise as a weightman.

Shovan is a young shot putter who has not reached his potential. The 19-year-old has good speed and strength, but he lacks size.

Hartzog believes the 440-yard, 880-yard and mile relays should be exceptionally bright spots for Northeast, but he sees possible weaknesses in the 880-yard run and the high jump.

In other action Northeast will participate in the Southwestern Relays April 9 in Lafayette, the Louisiana Invitational April 23 in Baton Rouge, the Southern AAU May 7, also in Baton Rouge, and the Gulf States Conference Meet May 21 in Lake Charles.

With a mile-relay victory in December's Sugar Bowl meet under their belts, Coach Hartzog has his thinclads working out now for their season opener in Montgomery, Ala., in the Coliseum Relays Feb. 20.

Prospects are bright for this year's squad, which has lost only four lettermen from the championship team of last year. Looking at it by points, only 14 of the 93 3-5 points the Indians scored in the Gulf States Conference meet have graduated.

However, Hartzog, who is in his third year as Indian coach and seems to be nearing completion of the building program he began in 1958, sees another side of the picture too. He admits his Indians will be stronger this year but feels they could end up winning fewer meets because of the tougher schedule with more university competition.

Last year the Indians, carrying a squad of only 11 men, ran away with the annual GSC meet and then scored a smashing victory in the Southern AAU held at Brown Stadium in Monroe.

Back this year will be the sensational Styron twins, Don and Dave, plus Roger Beumer, Dick Hays, and Jim Mouser, as sprinters and hurdlers. Also returning are distance aces Don Eiland and Jack Williams. Other lettermen are basketballer Robert Cook, Bill Frye, and Rich Shovan.

Promising freshmen include miler George Abbot, sprinter Bill Koerner and hurdlers Randall Walker and Earl Hecker.

Expected to bolster the Indians is the presence of three much-needed weightmen in Hoy Rogers, James Copeland, and freshman Jerry Dyes. Dyes is a graduate of Fair Park High in Shreveport and considered one of Louisiana's great prep athletes.

Altogether 17 new faces will add depth that has been missed by Northeast its last two years. However, both those years Hartzog has been named GSC Track Coach of the Year.

Hartzog's 1958 squad was unimpressive during the season but caused some excitement by placing third in the GSC Meet. In 1959 11 men established the Indians as one of the nation's top college teams.

As an indication of what was to come last year, four men running together for the first time scored a surprisingly easy victory in the Sugar Bowl mile relay before the regular season got under way. Then, defeating such notables as Texas, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, LSU and Houston, the Styron twins, Mouser and Hays went on to lose only one race during 1959. Northeast won the Southern AAU, LSU Invitational and GSC Meet and placed fourth in both the Florida and Southwestern Relays.

Gone from that squad are only four lettermen — sprinter Don Reynolds, broad jumper Jerry Ivy, pole vaulter Gene Hagan and javelin thrower Bob McGough.

Leading the Northeast squad again this year will be Don and Dave Styron, both juniors. The speedy identical twins were selected GSC co-athlets of the year in 1959, the first time the award has ever gone to trackmen.

Dave will lead off the 440, 880 and mile relays, pole vault, high jump and broad jump, plus participating in sprints. Last year he ran the 100-yard dash in 9.4, the 220-yard dash in 20.6 and the 440-yard dash in 47.5. All three are school records.

Dave suffered a bullet wound in his right leg eight days before the Sugar Bowl meet in December, yet turned in a 48.2 lap to lead off the winning mile relay. Hartzog says the injury should not affect him during the coming season. Dave hopes to make the Olympics.

Don, the hurdle specialist, was the nation's second - ranking man over the low boards last year. He ran in the lows in under 23 seconds seven times, clocking a 22.5 mark in his best effort. Don anchors the 440, 880 and mile-relay teams. In 1959 he scored a total of 207 points and was named the outstanding athelete in the Northwestern Relays. He hopes to make the Olympics as a 400-meter hurdler.

Top distance men are expected to be Eiland, Williams and Frye.

Don "Buddy" Eiland, a sensational sophomore from Farmerville, suffered a broken hip and ruptured kidney in an auto accident in early January of 1959 and spent eight weeks in the hospital, missing the first half of the season.

Nevertheless, he returned to run a 4:15.0 mile and 9:31.4 two-mile. Eiland established himself as the Deep South's leading distance runner during the cross-country season and should be a top contender in all meets.

TRANSFERS BOLSTER SQUAD

McNeese Stronger In Sprint Events

LAKE CHARLES, La. (Special) —McNeese State College's days in track meet sprint events appear to be numbered.

Through some energetic recruiting on the part of coach Charley Kuehn, the Cowboys, currently practicing for an upcoming 12-meet season, have been considerably strengthened in the 100-440 yard races.

Chief additions to the McNeese squad are three transfers off last year's Howard County Junior College team which won the Texas state championship. The newcomers from the other side of the Sabine River are Fred Thompson, Clyde Dabbs and Sammy Kruse.

Thompson, who is also a fine hurdler and broad jumper, was credited with a 21.2 clocking in the 220 - yard dash last season. Dabbs was timed in 09.6 and Kruse in 09.7 in the 100 - yard dash, the second and third best junior college times in the nation last season.

Others who should bolster the McNeese sprint corps are Anton Smajstrla, a transfer from Victoria (Tex.) JC, and Robert Sullivan, formerly of Chennault Air Force Base who was the 1959 Third Air Force world - wide 100-yard dash champ. In 1955, Smajstrla helped Robert E. Lee High of Baytown, Tex., set the national high school mile relay record of 3:17.9.

Kuehn expects only four holdovers from last year's squad to return to competition this season. They are GSC broad jump record holder Don Troutman, javelin ace Jack Theriot, weightman Al Nesmith and hurdler Dick Harris.

Troutman broke his own GSC broad jump record with a leap of 23-7½ last spring and Theriot set a school javelin record with a throw of 200-1½. Troutman and Nesmith, along with freshman Ed Barrilleaux, will join the track team after the close of basketball season.

Similarly, Floyd Guillot, Ron Doughty and Larry Markham, all freshmen, are expected to report for track after completing spring football training.

Freshmen who are now working with the thinclads include distance star Dave Liste, Phil Hurt, Jerry Morgan, Darwin Enicks, Jack Yetto, Wayne Askew, Joseph Rybiski, Dave Dartez and Craig Bowman.

Liste was not enrolled in school last track season, but he placed fourth in the 1958 GSC cross country race.

McNeese will open its season on March 5, when it encounters defending GSC champion Northeast Louisiana State in a dual meet here. The schedule will close on May 21 when McNeese hosts the annual GSC championship meet.

The schedule:
March 5 —Northeast Louisiana, here
March 12 —Centenary, Shreveport
March 19 — Lamar Tech and Sam Houston, Beaumont
March 26 — Southeastern Louisiana SLI and Northwestern State, home.
April 2— Stephen F. Austin and Northwestern State, Natchitoches
April 9— Southwestern Relays, Lafayette
April 16 —Northeast Louisiana and East Texas State, Monroe
April 21 —Northwestern Relays, Natchitoches
April 23 —LSU Invitational at Baton Rouge, or Lamar Tech dual home
April 30 —Southeastern Louisiana, Hammond
May 4 —SLI and Northwestern State, Lafayette
May 21 —Gulf States Conference meet, home

Grambling To Get Shot At Prairie View

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — After three long weeks of waiting, the Grambling Tigers will get another opportunity to satisy their hunger pains here Saturday night in a Southwestern Conference game against Leroy Moore's hated Prairie View Panthers.

The arch foes will take the floor like scrapping brothers in a contest scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Prairie View, the current SWAC leader, has beaten Fred Hobdy's Tigers twice this season, but the third meeting represents a hazardous pitfall for the Texans.

For one thing, Hobdy will have the proper blind, veteran talent to lend savvy and aplomb to his freshmen hotshots.

Rex Tippitt, Howard "im Dandy" Willis and Charles Hardnett are bristling to get at least partially even with the Panthers and admit openly that tempers won't subside to normalcy until around 10 p.m. Saturday night.

Hardnett missed the last Prairie View encounter because of illness, but the six - eight sophomore will be one of the chief prospectors Saturday.

He scored 33 points against Jackson State Monday night.

Prairie View hopes to offset Hobdy's ogres on the superlative performance of Connell Lackey, Clarence Stubbefield and Zelmo Beaty.

Jordan Receives Attractive Offer To Defend Title

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Promoter Tommy Moyer Friday offered a $60.000 guarantee to welterweight champion Don Jordan to defend his title against Denny Moyer in April.

Moyer said he wants to stage the fight in either Portland or Seattle.

Jordan, who is under orders from the National Boxing Assn. to defend his title soon, won a 15-round decision from young Moyer here last July.

It is the only loss the 20-year-old Moyer has suffered in 25 fights since turning professional.

Moyer, who is managed by Sid Flaherty, is scheduled to fight Tony DeMarco in Boston next Wednesday.

Tommy Moyer, who promoted the Jordan-Moyer fight last summer, is Denny's uncle.

Doug Sanders has the shortest backswing of any golfer on the professional tour.

Attorney Bids For Wismer's Redskin Stock

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Cleveland attorney conformed Friday night he is negotiating to buy Harry Wismer's stock in the Washington Redskins for an unidentified group of clients.

Wismer, nationally known radio sportscaster from Detroit, holds a large block of stock in the Washington club of the National Football League.

Creighton Miller, a former star Notre Dame halfback and more recently attorney for NFL players in their bargaining with club owners, said at his home here Friday night that he is representing parties interested in buying Wismer's stock.

Miller declined to disclose names of the prospective purchasers or to confirm a report an offer of $350.000 had been made by his clients.

"No figures have been arrived at yet," Miller said. He added that negotiations still were "in preliminary stages" and the outcome would depend on meetings to be held "in the near future."

Wismer, because of holdings in the New York Giants of the American Football League, is seeking to dispose of his Redskins' stock.

Tribesmen Host To Southeastern

If the new Ouachita High gymnasium is becoming as familiar and friendly to Northeast's basketball Indians as the Ouachita Junior High court was last season, the Tribe's chances of beating Southeastern tonight are better than 50-50.

Despite a so-so overall record of 10-12 last year, Lenny Fant's Redskins were one of the best home clubs in the GSC losing only two games on the junior high floor.

The switch to the high school hardwood—plus the loss of stars like Mickey Kitchens, Billy May, Sid Bradley and John Freeman—has dropped Northeast's home record to a less impressive 2-6 but the home court is still the Tribe's good luck charm. The two triumphs at home have been the only victories of the season and, in everp home-and-home, series but one played so far, the Indians have played better games at home than on the road.

To win tonight's 8 o'clock game, however, the Indians will need a little more than the home court advantage. Or rather a little less — less fouls. The 'Skins committed 30 fouls in losing to Southeastern, 78-66, at Hammond Monday. The Tribe made 27 field goal to 22 for the Lions but Southeastern made good on 34 of 43 foul shots to capture the victory.

Northeast can pull even with SLC in Gulf States Conference action by winning, currently holding a 1-4 mark to the Lions' 2-3. The Lions have the edge in overall records also, standing at 7-9 to Northeast's 2-16.

Indian Coach Fant will start the same five that opened against the Lions Monday, Ronald Doyle, Fred Bradley, Robert Cook, Charles Barnes and Lanny Johnson.

Doyle upped his team - leading scoring average to 14.3 per game with a 22-point performance against Southeastern Monday while Johnson, second top offensive threat on the squad, pushed his average to an even 12 with a 19-point output against the Lions.

Behind the starters, Fant will have tough little Stewart Toms, the team's top sub, Larry Stegal, Dave Harkins, Milton Linder and J. B. Edmiston.

Jump shot artist Wayne Newsom continues to lead Southeastern in scoring with 252 points and a 15.7 average. He got 13 against the Redmen last week. Veteran forward Jesse Shanks was the top Lion pointmaker against North east with 22 points. These two and Charles Doskey, Mike Brinkley and Joe Tuminaro are expected to start for the visitors tonight.

If the above unit starts for the Lions, Northeast will have a slight height advantage, the Indians averaging 6-2, about an inch taller than the visitors. Shanks (6-6) and Doskey (6-5) are the Lion big men while Barnes and Cook, both 6-5, are Northeast's tallest.

Five games remain on the Northeast schedule after tonight, tll but one of them at home. Mississippi Southern will be here Monday night.

Russell Nabs 51 Rebounds; Celtics Easy

BOSTON (AP)—Big Bill Russell who complained of an ailing leg before the game, Friday night grabbed a record 51 rebounds and led the Boston Celtics to an easy 124-100 National Basketball Assn. conquest of Syracuse.

Russell, the Celtics' 6-foot-10 defensive genius, gold Boston coach Red Auerbach before the game he had a slight charley horse in his left leg, but said he thought he could play.

He worked the entire 48 minutes, breaking his own record of 49, set in Boston against Philadelphia Nov. 15, 1957.

His amazing performance.plus a 43 point Boston spree in the second quarter, make it easy for the defending world champions to win their 15th straight home game and extend their Eastern division lead to 4½ games over idle Philadelphia.

The Nats tied the game at 30-30, early in the second quarter, but it was the only time they came close.

Boston, riding on the fast breaks of Sam Jones, Frank Ramsey and Tommy Heinsohn, and Russel's work under the basket, quickly moved in front 40-33, and later ran off 11 straight points.

Boston had a 72-59 halftime lead and the closest Syracuse could come after that was 17 points back at 93-76.

Ramsey's 25 points led all scorers, and Russell rounded out his performance with 23. Dick Barnett and George Yardley were high for Syracuse with 19 each.

Rocky Rejected Million-Dollar Comeback Shot

PITTSBURGH AP — Rocky Marciano said Friday that he turned down a million dollar offer to return to the ring. He added, however, that he would attempt a comeback if offered three million dollars spread over a 10-year period to cut the income tax bite.

In Pittsburgh to attend a Dapper Dan Club banquet, Marciano told reporters:

"I was with Jim Norris one night in Chicago when he said to me, 'I'll write you a check for one million dollars right now if you'll get back in the ring,' I told him no, and he said, 'I never thought I'd meet anybody that would turn down a million dollars in cold cash like that."

Recreation Basketball

St. Joseph had to go overtime to beat College Place, 61-58, in a Church "A" League basketball game last night, but Louisiana Training Institute had an easier time beating Trinity Baptist, 57-34. A third game scheduled for the league was never players, Victory Baptist claiming a default from Temple Baptist.

McCullough and Phillips led the St. Joseph attack, each with 14 points. High scorer for College Place—and the game — was McGowen with 24. Leading the scoring in the LTI-Trinity contest were Fisher, LTI, 22, and Barry Furlow, Trinity, 9.

Southside Methodist, paced by Schuler's 22 points, thumped First Baptist, 37-21, in a Church "B" League game. Aston's eight points led First Baptist.

WITH JIM CALHOUN

ACCENT ON DEFENSE

Calhoun's Jerry Lovett may not be the winningest prep basketball coach in the business, although a 36-3 record is nothing to be sneezed at, but at gametime he's probably one of the busiest.

If you've wondered what gives with the ever-present chart in his hand when the Chieftains are playing, it's a play-by-play record of the team's defensive mistakes. For every boner the Calhoun defenders pull, Lovett places an appropriate mark on his chart. It covers just about everything from bobbled passes to leaving the floor to block a shot.

When the final horn sounds, the former Louisiana Tech ace can put his finger on every miscue his club has committed defensively.

In addition to improving the Calhoun defense, Lovett's project is aimed toward his obtaining a master's degree from Northwestern State College. The end result will be an analytical gem entitled "Defensive Errors By Calhoun High School."

The action must have been as furious on the bench as it was on the court in the Chieftains' three one-point victories in the West Monroe tournament.

SPORTS AT A GLANCE

Shelby Aulds, West Monroe's gift to Southwestern basketball, continues to make his presence felt in the Bulldog lineup. The sophomore captain ranks second on the squad in foul shooting with 43 conversions in 56 attempts for 76 per cent from the line. Two of that total after the final gun beat Louisiana Tech a couple of weeks ago. Aulds is fifth on the club in scoring with a 7.1 average. .....McNeese baseball received a set back recently. Top Diamond Stars To Visit Carville Fans

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Patients at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in Carville Saturday will pick up a conversation piece that will last another year.

Harold (Doc) Wendler, as he has done for the past 10 years, will take several major league baseball stars from the Baton Rouge baseball clinic to the hospital south of here for a visit.

Wendler works with the baseball clinic.

Scores of top names in baseball come here each year to teach kids the game in a local clinic. The trip to the hospital, which specializes in treatment of persons with Hansen's disease (leprosy) is a sidelight.

Wendler said the group of stars will leave after the clinic Saturday.

"Those patients are big baseball fans," Wendler said, "and this is their only chance to meet the players."

Wade will leave for College Station, Tex., about the middle of February.

Levy Appointed California Coach

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—The University of California Friday announced it has picked Marvin Levy, 34-year-old football coach at the University of New Mexico, as new head coach to succeed Pete Elliott.

Levy has been head coach at New Mexico for the past two years.

The announcement was made by the chancellor's committee, composed of O. Cort Majors, chairman; Arleigh Williams, dean of men and former football star; and professors Nello Pace and Adrian Kragen.

Levy is a graduate of Coe College at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he majored in history and won Phi Beta Kappa honors while earning eight athletic letters—three in track and two in basketball.

The committee said it made its selection in close cooperation with Paul T. Hastings, executive director of the Associated Students of the University of California (ASUC) and Athletic Director Greg Englehard.

Chancellor Glenn T. Seaborg accepted the recommendation and, in turn, obtained approval from President Clark Kerr, the board of regent's educational policy committee, and the executive committee of the ASUC.

Levy, whose Lobos have finished second in the past two seasons in the Skyline Conference, arrived here by plane Tuesday night for conference with school officials. They have been looking for a replacement for Elliott since the end of the season, when he resigned to become head coach at the University of Illinois.

Levy arrived at New Mexico in 1956 as backfield coach under head Coach Dick Clausen. Before that, he served as football coach at the Country Day School in St. Louis, Mo., where his team ran up a 13-1 record. He also served three years at Coe as assistant grid coach and one year as head basketball coach.

Levy will attend Friday night's California-Washington game and then leave Saturday noon for Albuquerque to wind up his affairs.

When Levy was at Coe, which he entered after serving in the Air Force from 1943 to 1946, he was elected student body president and captain of the football team during his senior year. After leaving Coe he took a masters degree at Harvard.

At New Mexico he built up a team which highlighted its past season by defeating the Air Force Academy 28-27. The Lobos lost the first two games last season but bounced back to win seven of their remaining eight and again finished runner-up to Wyoming for conference honors.

They wound up third in the nation in rushing and eighth in total offense.

Levy is a proponent of the wing-T offense he learned at Iowa.

Elliott, who led the Bears to the Rose Bowl in 1959, resigned to become head coach at Illinois.

Chancellor Seaborg issued this Statement:

"I am delighted with the selection of Marvin Levy as varsity football coach.

"He has a fine coaching record and has excelled academically. In addition, representatives of students, faculty and alumni who have met him have expressed enthusiasm about his personal qualities."

Probe Held By Villanova After Melees

The university said it was trying to identify the students who participated and would take disciplinary action.

Four times guards at the New York arena, aided by police, were called in to break up fights during the Villanova-Manhattan basketball game. At its height, 20 Garden and city police were needed.

The bulk of the Villanova student following was seated at one end of the Garden. But more showed up than had been anticipated and other Villanovans were seated in the Manhattan section. Thousands of seats between the two student bodies were empty.

Father Joseph Kemme, vice president in charge of student activities at Villanova, said he is conducting an investigation. He said he was at the game, and didn't realize with the first outbreaks that Villanovans were involved. Later, he said, he began to suspenct activity by his students, but was so far from the scene he didn't go to it as police appeared to bring the melees under control.

He said Villanova "very much regrets the incidents."

Father Kemme said he didn't believe the names of Villanovans found to have been involved would be made public.

Hockey Stars Balk At Trade To New York

DETROIT (AP—The National Hockey League will delay official action on the threatened retirement of Red Kelly and Billy McNeill for 24 hours to give the Detroit players time to "think things over."

Clarence Campbell, president of the league, said he was not trying to patch up the deal that backfired between the Red Wings and the New York Rangers.

"My concern is the welfare of the players," said Campbell, reached by phone in Toronto. "I don't want any player to make a hurried decision that he might regret." If Kelly and McNeill stick to their decisions the NHL then will place them on waivers.

Kelly and McNeill were traded Thursday night to the Rangers in exchange for Bill Gadsby and Eddie Shack. Kelly, 32-year-old veteran of 13 NHL seasons, announced Friday morning he was quitting rather than report to the Rangers. McNeill informed the club early Friday that he, too, had decided to retire.

Campbell talked to Kelly by phone Friday and planned to confer with McNeill.

"This is a big decision," said Campbell, "and it must be given very thorough consideration. There is nothing so urgent that it must be done today. I am giving both players a chance to get over the initial disappointment. The league will take no action until Saturday."

Campbell said he will talk again Saturday with both players. If they are put on waivers any club can claim them for what Campbell called "a very modest sum" and try to talk them out of retirement.

Walcott Goes To Aid Of 'Woman'

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott went to the aid of a pistol-packing damsel in distress today, found "she" was a male policeman in disguise, and helped arrest an alleged wolf on wheels.

Walcott, former world heavyweight boxing champion, now is a special policeman. He was cruising Camden's streets when he heard a shot and saw a car speed away from the "woman."

Walcott asked "her" what was going on.

The reply was in a masculine voice: "Come on Joe, let's get that car."

The speaker was Vincent Wall, one of Camden's two policemen assigned to walk the streets in disguise to trap mashers. He had fired a shot to attract other police.

LA TITLE CARD

Pair Of Punches Settle Twin Bill

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two punches—a left hook to the chin and a right shot to the jaw—kept the world bantamweight and junior welterweight crowns on the heads of their owners Jose Becerra of Mexico and Carlos Ortiz of New York City.

The punches gave painful headaches but sizeable purses to the challengers, Alphonse Halimi, the French Algerian, and Raymundo (Battling) Torres, the youthful Mexican.

Becerra, the 23-year-old bantam champ was behind on points when one of his first punches in the ninth round—a crackling left hook—exploded on Halimi's chin.

Thump. Down went Halimi, ending his hopes of regaining the title he lost to Becerra last July.

Shots of "Ole" rang through the Cavernous Memorial Coliscum Thursday night where a crowd of 31,830—mostly Mexicans—paid a record California gate of $363,890 to see the double championship card.

The official time was 48 seconds, but Halimi was in a stupor for many minutes afterward and groped as he was helped back to his dressing room.

Becerra said he never hit anyone harder. Only last October, the young battler from Guadalajara kayoed an American fighter named Walt Ingram who died after the bout.

Of his finishing punch to Hafimi, Becerra said:

"When I hit him, I just walked back to my corner. I knew Halimi wasn't going to get up."

Both fights were scheduled for 15 rounds.

For Torres, another heart throb from South of the Border, it was simply a case of too much, too soon.

The 18-year-old, unbeaten in 31 previous starts, had 24 knockouts to his credit. But he was outclassed from the outset by Ortiz, the handsome Puerto Rican kingpin of the reactivated junior welter division.

He put Torres away after 2 minutes, 56 seconds of the 10th round with a whistling right to the jaw. But it was almost anti-climactic. The champion, a master boxer, jabbed, hooked and feinted with precision.

Ortiz' finishing punch dropped the arm-weary Torres to the canvas. The youngster from Reynosa, Mexico, was counted out.

Ortiz, making his first defense of the 140-pound title, said later he wanted a shot at the lightweight title held by Joe Brown.

And he hinted he wouldn't mind fighting in Los Angeles again.

Becerra is planning a tour of the Far West where a number of non-title fights are being discussed in Japan, the Philippines and Thailand.

Co-promoter George Parnassus said he may try to match Becerra with Leo Espinosa of the Philippines or Piero Rollo of Italy for a title fight later in the summer.

The Preakness will be run for the 84th time on Saturday, May 21 at the Pimlico course in Baltimore, Md.

PALM SPRINGS CLASSIC

Campbell's Hole-In-One Steals Show From Leader

By JAMES BACON

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Joe Campbell, the youngster among the touring pros, Friday won a $50,000 hole-in-one prize at the world's richest golf tournament. But it's so cut up he'll get only $12,500 from it at best.

Campbell smacked a 205-yard 3-iron shot into the fifth hole at Tamarisk Country Club, a pre-tournament deal with another pro cut his take to $25,000, providing no one else gets a hole-in-one during the tourney.

Later Campbell confided to newsmen he had another deal with Carhlie Faust, operator of a Knoxville, Tenn., Municipal Golf Course, to split half his pro earnings in return for $200 a week expense money, advanced by Faust.

"I still think it's good business-wise," said the husky 24-year-old pro voted the PGA freshman of the year in 1959.

Campbell's hole in one didn't unnerve him in the least. He wound up shooting a 69 over the par 72 Tamarisk Course, toughest of the four layouts being used in this tournament.

His three-day total was 74-68-69—211, seven strokes behind Wes Ellis Jr., the early leader.

Ellis is two strokes ahead of Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, who Friday added a 69 to rounds of 67 and 70.

Also at 206 is Bob Goalby who has rounds of 67, 70 and 69.

The 24-year-old Campbell, one-time Purdue basketball guard, and intercollegiate golf champion almost took the wrong club at the fifth hole of Tamarisk Country Club.

His caddy had advised a No. 2 iron and Joe took it out, swung it once and then made a last minute switch to a No. 3 iron.

"I followed the ball all the way but didn't see it go in the hole because it hit on the green in back of a high bunker. Some guy and his wife were standing on the green. They started jumping up and down and screaming.

"I knew what they were screaming about so I started screaming too. I guess everybody must have heard me holler for 10 miles. Then I grabbed my wife Imy (for Imogene) and danced all over the fairway. I guess we both cried a little bit."

Campbell, a native of Anderson, Ind., who plays out of Knoxville, Tenn., and New York City, said he had made a pre-tournament deal to split the $50,000 with Buddy Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif.

"I'm luckier than most of the pros," said Campbell. "Some of them are split up four ways."

Sullivan, who shot a 76 on the Bermuda Dunes Course, said he heard a loud speaker announcement of Campbell's ace and, "I did a lot of jumping and screaming myself."

Sullivan hit one of the 29 holes in one during 1959 pro tournament play. Campbell said, "He sure looked like a good guy to team up with."

The $50,000 will be paid by Lloyds of London, who gambled a $4,000 insurance policy against the odds of any of the 132 pros scoring a hole in one.

If more than one pro scores an ace in the five-day tournament the $50,000 will be divided.

Campbell used a new steel-center ball in his shot.

Calhoun's Left Jab Beats Ryan

NEW YORK (AP)—Rory Calhoun used a left jab to frustrate short-armed Billy Ryan Friday night and landed enough punches to earn a unanimous decision in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Although Calhoun, 164½, gave away 6½ pounds to Ryan, 171, he romped home easily on all three official cards. Judge Frank Forbes had it 9-1, Judge Tony Rossi 7-3 and Referee Ruby Goldstein 7-1-2. The AP card was 8-2 for Calhoun.

The idea for the long game was from the brain of Los Angeles State Coach Sax Elliot.

At the end of the regulation time of 40 minutes in the two 20-minute halves L. A. State was ahead 124-75. Then an extra 8-minute period was played. The pros play a 48-minute game of four 12-minute quarters.

Royals Hire Prep Coach As Consultant

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Assn. Friday signed up high school coach with a long string of successes for a newly created job: Coaching consultant.

He is Joe Brent Martin, 50-year-old former basketball coach at Lockland Wayne High School for 21 years before that school was dissolved in 1958. He is now a school principal.

Martin's job is to aid Royals Coach Tom Marshall with squad workouts the rest of the season. Marshall commented, "We can use any help we can get."

Martin, a soft-spoken coach with a keen eye for detail, emphasized precision ball control and speed with his teams. This produced an attack that appeared helter-skelter, but was actually a well-drilled operation.

Over 21 years his teams averaged 19 victories and 3 losses a season and won state championships twice—1952 and 1955.

DEEP-RUNNING baits were used to pull in this fine catch of bass by Guy Kincaid (left) and D. P. McDuff of Winnsboro. There are 24 of the bass, the biggest four pounds, and they were caught at Black River Lake near Monterey. Kincaid and McDuff said they traveled approximately 35 miles in the boat on the Tuesday fishing trip. (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Miss Mary Lucille LeBlanc, whose wedding to Ensign Robert Hough Pipes will be an event of Monday, February 15, was complimented with a kitchen and breakfast room shower by Miss Catherine Livaudais on Thursday evening, at her home on Jackson street.

A pink and white theme was carried out in the reception rooms of the Livaudais home, and in the living room a bowl of pink perfection and white camellias brightened an occasional table. Pink camellias were also used on the dining room table. Guests at the party were served a salad course.

A white wheelbarrow, decorated and filled with gifts for the honoree, was pushed into the room by little Miss Cassandra Copes.

Kitchen Shower Given For Recent Bride

Mrs. ,Richard Bolton Powell the former Ann Roper, was the honoree at a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Herbert Massey in Tallulah on January 29 with Mrs. Garland Roberson and Mrs. Donald Walker as co-hostesses. The honoree who wore for the occasion a gray wool princess style dress, was presented with a colorful corsage made of kitchen gadgets.

The hostesses, wearing aprons trimmed with tiny kitchen utensils welcomed their guests. The aprons were later added to the shower of gifts.

The refreshment table, overlaid with a white linen cloth, was centered with an arrangement of vegetables in shades of yellow orange, green and brown in a sauce pan and a cook book, the hostesses' gift.

Refreshments were served to the bride, Mrs. W. R. Roper, Mrs. Ellis Hart, Mrs. D. L. Roper, Mrs. W. F. Powell, Mrs. Alvin Taylor, Mrs. E. H. Ivy League Look Blasted By Writer As Sheepish

(Rheems Russell, a contributor to several national magazines, wrote for United Press International a few years ago a story poking fun at the chemise look in women's fashions. In the following, he comments on the current styles in men's clothing.)

By RHEEMS RUSSELL

It has been said that all history is reflected in women's fashions, but what about the male animal?

Perish the thought that the current "Ivy League Look," hereinafter referred to as "ILL," reflects the true state of the nation.

Thumbing through the daily newspapers and smart magazines, a pencil - slim silhouette of what purports to be today's Beau Brummel fairly trips across the men's clothing advertisements.

The narrow downward sloping shoulders are after the fashion of Webster's famous cartoon character, Caspar Milquetoast, and indicate he is suffering from leukemia. Ah, but the trousers and shoes provide the ne plus ultra of the "ILL." Trousers so tight they could be mistaken for leotards and the wearer a ballet dancer about to go into a nip-up or entrechat. Shoes, furbelowed with bows or other effeminate adornments, resemble boudoir slippers and are reminiscent of those worn by little Ford Fauntleroy and Gainsborough's Blue Boy.

If Ingemar Johansson, world's champion heavy-weight, ever got into one of these outfits and flexed his muscles, it would burst most of the seams, especially the right sleeve.

Maybe this "ILL" solves the mystery of why Pennsylvania University, after winning the Ivy League football championship last fall, summarily fired its coach, Steve Sebo — his shoulders were too broad!

Hat brims are narrower, too—except in Texas. Ties are narrower, collars shorter, lapels positively skimpy. Only prices are higher. Perhaps a Congressional investigation might reveal a conspiracy to save material in violation of the Anti-Trust Law and Fair Trade Act. This program may be rigged!

Women's fashions only now are recovering from a phase they passed through when it was tres chic to be or appear to be flat chested. With exception of Marilyn Monroe, Brigitte Bardot, Gina Lollobrigida and a handful of other outstanding dissenters who believe that "it's what's up front that counts," most female sheep gave the chemise look a fairly long run.

Then came along this masculine fashion trend. We use the word "masculine" with some trepidation. But this figures because men are always after women.

We predict that just as the chemise look gave way to the empirical bosomy look, the "ILL" will surrender to a less effete, more manly format.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Mess Of A Miss Needs Some Special Makeup

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and have a good figure and nice features. My complexion is sensitive and I break out from any cosmetic I put on my face. Even nail polish gives me hives. I look like a ghost without makeup. Also I appear to be about 14 years old without lipstick. I will bless your forever if you can help me.

MESS OF A MISS

Dear Mess: I will not give you the trade names but there are cosmetics on the market manufactured for people with your problem—and there are millions of such people I might add. Your druggist or dermatologist can direct you.

Dear Ann: I'm a high school senior going steady with a girl who is a junior. We get along great and she helps me with my homework. Also she's a good dancer.

Her sister is 14 and sort of a pest but she is smart for her age. Last night the kid sister called me on the phone to tell me my steady had accepted a date with a guy from out of town. He was here for the weekend visiting his roommate. I'm all shook up. I probably look like a punk to her after dating a college man.

Shall I tell my girl I know she two-timed me or what is the best way to handle this? — BETRAYED RAY

Dear Betrayed: Is that kid sister practicing to be an international spy? There's something unappetizing about this sort of informing. I hope you told her so.

Give your girl a week to volunteer the information. If she says nothing, tell her what you know. Ask for your ring, sweater, I.D. bracelet, picture and the assorted loot that symbolizes going steady. Then play the field—which is what high school kids should be doing anyway.

Questions And Answers Guide For Homemakers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. — We are redecorating our living room and I would like advice on colors for walls, rug and draperies. We have blond furniture and white lamps. The room is 12 by 22 feet and has natural woodwork and opens into a hall painted light green. Would rose walls be all right for such a long, narrow room? Can I use a medium green rug?

A. — Your idea of a medium green rug leading into your light green hall is perfectly sound. With this I would not like the rose walls for two reasons: they will make the room look smaller and combined with the green will give you a rather old-fashioned color scheme. Paint the longest unbroken wall a true yellow. Other three walls should be a pale tone of the same yellow. This will make room appear wider and brighter. Concentrate lamps on long walls to widen it.

Q. — We are planning to furnish our new house in Early American maple. Carpeting is gold, walls are buff and draperies are a textured gold stripe. What would be suitable accent colors? Also, can a traditional gilt mirror 30 by 36 inches be used successfully in such a scheme? It is a keepsake and we would like to use it somewhere.

A. — Accent colors might be emerald green and copper in your nicely planned color scheme. I'm afraid, however, that the rather formal mirror won't go at all. The trick to blending periods is to keep them in the same spirit: either casual or formal. Can yo uuse this piece in a hallway?

Q. — I'm about to put a beige textured rug in my bedroom. It does not seem to go well with the limed oak furniture. This last is shabby and should be refinished. The room is fairly large and has two windows. Wall behind the back of the bed must be papered because of an opening which has been filled in with plaster board. Please advise on furniture color, walls, woodwork and curtains.

A. — Paint your furniture white. Pick a wallpaper of darkish print with white in it (a toile in brown or bronzy green would be effective choice). Paper the wall behind the bed and the entire ceiling. All other walls should be white as should woodwork. Curtains could be either white or the accent colors.

Q. — My kitchen has natural wood cabinets with white imitation brick under cabinets. Counter tops are pink. What color do you suggest for flooring, for paint on dropped ceiling above cabinets and archway leading to living room?

A. — Flooring should be cork or marbelized hard surface tiles as near to color of wood cabinets as possible. Ceiling and archway should be pink paler than counter tops. When you get to it have white curtains and wood dinette set.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Be Proud, Not Ashamed Of Nursing Your Child

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

In all the years of my concern for parents and their problems this is the first time I have ever answered this question.

Mrs. P. E. writes, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: I would appreciate any advice you could give me. I nursed my first baby without any problems and I would like to nurse my second. How do mothers go about nursing a baby when a child — or children — is present? At some time or another my son, who is three, is certain to see me nursing the baby and will ask questions.

"When his friends are in the house is it safe for me to go into a room and close the door and remain there for a half hour or longer? Even if I am within earshot I would be worrying and I am afraid this would affect the milk."

ERASE WORRY

This is a worry that you can erase immediately. Welcome your child's questions. Why should he not see you nursing the baby and be told that this is nature's way of providing for the young infant? Explain to him that this is the way he was fed when he was young.

Point out the different animals who nourish their young in this same way, including the cow whose milk for the calf he and all the rest of you drink. He won't understand all of what you say, but he will get the right idea that this is a natural, ceremony and nothing of which to be ashamed.

DON'T HIDE

If you are a modest person, as it is plain you are, you will nurse the baby in a modest way, even in front of children. But if they ask questions, then explain this process to them as you have to your son. I would certainly not go and hide in a room and close the door.

I agree that confusion, noise and anxiety about the whereabouts or activities of several children might influence the flow of milk, so see that your boy doesn't have company at the time when you know you will be nursing the baby.

Send the children home if they bother you and tell them to come back in three-quarters of an hour when the baby has been fed. But chiefly: don't be ashamed of or embarrassed by nursing. Be proud of it.

DEAR ABBY

See If It Lasts The Long Hitch, Soldier

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a GI in Korea. I have been here five months and have fallen in love with a Korean girl. (A guy can get very lonesome here.) I went to my First Sgt. to make application for a marriage certificate. He sent me to my Commanding Officer, who in turn sent me to the Chaplain. The Chaplain sent me to the division psychiatrist. Now, Abby, I am far from being crazy.

I love this girl and she loves me. I am 21 and old enough to know my own mind. The girl's past is questionable (she was a prostitute) but she has reformed and I can overlook her past. I was no angel, either. Am I wrong? PVT. PAUL

DEAR PVT.: Slow down, Soldier: If this is the kind of love that will last forever (and that's the only kind worth marrying for) it will last until you finish your hitch. If the girl has "reformed" and loves you, she won't object to your "sending for her" after you've returned home and had a chance to think about it objectively.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a dedicated business man and works late at least three nights a week. Am I being unfair to object to his taking his very young and pretty secretary out to eat after she works overtime with him? It usually involves a delay which keeps him out until 1:30 a.m.

This is not a new situation. Unfortunately I am prejudiced because I married this divorced man as a result of working for him under exactly the same conditions. EX-SECRETARY

DEAR EX: You won't teach this old dog any new tricks as long as the old ones work. Bring your feelings out into the open. He might interpret your silence as ignorance, indifference or approval.

DEAR ABBY: How affectionate should a couple (going steady) act in broad daylight in the company of parents, brothers, sisters, cousins and so forth?

A relative of mine and her boyfriend are always mushing up a storm in front of everybody. We are embarrassed to look at them. They say there is nothing wrong with it as long as they love each other. She is 17 and he is 19. A RELATIVE

DEAR RELATIVE: "Mushing up a storm" in public is in extremely bad taste and entirely out of place.

AF Leader Talks About Missile Flop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Force research program, said Friday ground equipment trouble caused the failure of the latest Discoverer satellite experiment.

The Discoverer was launched Thursday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. It failed to achieve orbit.

Schriever told the House Science and Astronautics Committee there was a malfunction in the tower which moved the fueling equipment away from the vehicle at launch time.

This damaged the second stage, he said, and also apparently led to a premature shutdown in the first stage.

The first stage, a Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile, cut off its power after 145 seconds instead of the 160 seconds for which it was programmed, Schriever said.

"The second stage never had a chance to get into orbit," he added.

Schriever said this was the first such accident in the Discoverer program. It is the third time, however, that ground equipment failures have occurred. Of the nine launchings, six have achieved orbit.

TRIAL CONTINUING

Finch Answers 2 Accusations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A wealthy surgeon on trial for his life Friday answered two major accusations in the prosecution's case against him: that he hired a hoodlum to kill his wife and, when the man didn't, assembled a "do-it-yourself murder kit" and plotted a slaying that would look accidental.

Dr. R. Bernard Finch said the kit—actually an innocent-appearing brown leather attache case—was nothing more than an emergency medical bag used by doctors in his clinic.

He said the hoodlum was hired not to murder socialite Barbara Jean Finch but to get compromising evidence against her for use in their divorce case, by wooing her if need be.

The crew-cut, tennis-loving physician from suburban West Covina was on the witness stand for the third day.

He and his pretty mistress, Carole Tregoff, are charged with conspiracy and murder. The alleged motive: to prevent Mrs. Finch from getting much of the doctor's wealth via divorce.

The prosecution contends they ambushed Mrs. Finch in her garage last July 18, intending to kill her so it could not be detected by autopsy, then drive her car off a cliff so it would look accidental. One prosecution suggestion: that hypodermics in the kit could have been intended to inject fatal and undetectable air bubbles into the blood. But, the state says, the plans went awry when Mrs. Finch pulled a gun, the doctor took it from her, beat her, then shot her as she fled.

He claims it was an accident—the gun fired when he tried to throw it away as they struggled for it.

The attache case contained such items as rope, bullets, a butcher knife, bandages, sleeping potions, hypodermics and a flashlight.

The doctor rummaged through it on the witness stand, explaining that the contents were for such things as pumping stomachs "if junior should swallow rat poison."

Die he plan to use the items to kill or knock out his wife?

"No, nothing like that at all—just what I have said."

The bag originally, he said, came filled with Christmas cheeses from a donor he could not remember.

Of the hired hoodlum, the doctor said: "He was willing to bet the sum of $100 that he could pick up any girl in Las Vegas within 24 hours."

The man he named is Jack Cody, brought here from jail in Minneapolis to be a star prosecution witness. He has a record of petty crimes. He testified for the prosecution that Dr. Finch and his mistress hired him for $1,400 to kill Mrs. Finch, and that he took the money but had no intention of killing anyone.

Dr. Finch said he turned to Cody because Cody told him he would get evidence on Mrs. Finch even if he had to sleep with her.

He related a conservation he had with Cody in Las Vegas, Nev. shortly before the slaying: "I didn't know how he was going to be able to meet Barbara. I thought he would have a very difficult time doing this. I ju didn't think that Barbara cou be picked up."

He said Cody told him "wom were his business and he didn want me to question him on th —that was his end of the deal."

The bulk of the doctor's tes mony Friday morning was abo the attache case.

"It was being prepared a n emergency kit," he said. "Th was to be not carried regular by me, or by any other doctor.

He said any doctor in his cli could have used it if he we called for such things as "a p son case or for a minor surgi emergency."

Drunk Driving Discussed By Jaycees Here

The Monroe Jaycees will launch a new series of roundtable discussions Sunday on a local television station.

The first of the programs, to be aired over television channel 8, will deal with driving while intoxicated.

Panel members will be David I. Garrett, senior judge of the Fourth District Court; Officer J. H. Gregory of the Monroe Police Department, and Dr. Najeeb Klam, chief pathologist at St. Francis Hospital.

Jaycee Billy Hargiss will serve as moderator.

The Roundtable series is being produced as a public service by the Public Affairs committee of the local Jaycee chapter. Stanley Boggs and Robert S. Kennedy are co-chairmen of the committee.

FIRST PROGRAM

"The first program will deal with a problem that is constantly increasing as more and more automobiles are being used and consumption of alcoholic beverages continues to rise," said Boggs.

"We hope to present some authoritive thinking on the subjects of the laws, penalties for violation, how arrests are made, and medical and other evidence presented in such cases."

Judge Garrett recently rendered a decision testing the constitutionality of the present laws, but his decision was overruled by the Louisiana Supreme Court.

During the program, telephones will be manned and the public will be given an opportunity to call in questions to be answered by the panel.

The series will be continued periodically, and future programs will deal with such subjects as mental health, legal and illegal gambling, socialized medicine, juvenile problems and others.

The Jaycee chapter has announced that suggestions for future programs will be welcomed.

Ships Quit Search For Plane Debris

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two Navy ships which have been probing the depths of the Gulf of Mexico two weeks for the three-month-old wreckage of a National Airlines plane gave up and headed home yesterday.

The Miami to New Orleans plane crashed Nov. 16 about 25 miles off the southeastern Louisiana coast with 42 persons aboard. None survived. Authorities believes a planned explosion may have caused the crash.

Violent weather and seas plagued the ships Penguin and Vigor since the search resumed Jan. 26. Two divers were able to make only brief descents to the Gulf floor, about 250 feet deep.

Underwater detecting equipment made several contacts at different points in the area, but each time the contact proved to be not that of the wreckage.

Both ships left at noon for their home ports, the Penguin for Key West, Fla., and the Vigor for Panama City, Fla.

Pressure for the search was stirred after FBI agents in Phoenix, Ariz., last month arrested Robert Spears, a Dallas, Tex., naturopath. They reported finding explosive-type equipment in his luggage.

Spears, an ex-convict, had been listed as a passenger on the plane. He carried $100,000 in air travel insurance listing his wife in Dallas as beneficiary.

It was believed that William Taylor of Tampa, Fla., traveled on the plane under Spears' name. Taylor has been missing since the crash.

George Washington made a present to Mrs. Washington of a dressing table which had two large mirrors. The glass was decorated by designs of roses and leaves.

The Bering Sea, separating Alaska from Siberia, is becoming more and more a rich producer of fish and crabs for market. This is partially a result of improvement of refrigeration methods for long hauls to markets.

Parish Police Jury Meeting Average Low

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury is in a special category, meeting - wise.

Last year, Ouachita and three other parish Police Juries met fewer than the 52 times for which Juryman may be paid. The other 60 parishes met the full 52 times.

Ouachita jurors received a total of $16,840.40 for attendance at meetings. Thirty - five sessions were held.

The little - known side of Jury activity included countless committee meetings — for which no pay is given.

"Each of the 16 Jurors is chairman of a committee, and every Juryman belongs to at least three or four committes," said President M. W. Montgomery yesterday. "Each committee meets at least once a month."

"Last year, I attended meetings and did Jury work 147 days. I got paid for 35 of them," he commented.

PER MEETING

Pay per meeting is $30 for each Juror attending, plus 10 cents per mile for out - of - town members including West Monroyans.

"I feel that Ouachita parish residents are getting their money's worth out of jurors," Montgomery said. "Nobody else puts in that much work without getting paid for it."

He noted a few of the many committees: Courthouse, Detention Home, Wildlife, Taxes, Stock Law, Road and Finance, Purchasing, Cheniere Lake.

"Lots of times, Jurors go out on their own to look over road," he added.

According to Louisiana law, Juries as governing bodies of each parish may meet 52 times per year with pay. Ouachita held 12 regular meetings, 12 inance committee sessions and eleven special meetings which were paid for.

Jurymen's salaries last year were: Ward one: F. G. Studdard, $1,148; Ward two: W. J. Vinson $1,013.60; Ward three: M. W. Montgomery, $1,050, Robert W. Irby, $1,020, L. B. Pettit, $1,050.

Ward four: C. A. Kincaid, $1,128.80; Ward five, Ollie C. Carter, $1,085, Percy Nichols, $1,078, Tom Hicks $930; Ward six: W. F. Golson, $1,176.

Ward seven: W. O. Roberts, $1,156; Ward eight: A. R. Sims, $825; Ward nine: G. H. Owens, $1,090; Ward ten, L.U. Fourmy, $1,020; Irvin W. Kilpatrick, $1,020; A. E. Montgomery, $1,050.

EASY THESE DAYS

Most of them get their big break on television, he points out.

"These kids are fearless," he says, "but they've never played theaters where if you were bad, the audience would come right up and hit you, like I have."

Senator Long Gives Views On School Bill

WASHINGTON (Special) —Sen. Russell B. Long (D) La., said Friday he voted against the Federal education aid bill because it could be an attempt "to bribe the school teachers to favor integration of the races in the south."

He said that "10 years ago" all southern senators would have voted for Federal assistance for local schools, but since then the Civil Rights issue has forced them to change their minds.

He stated that once such a program went into effect, a northern legislator could tack a Civil Rights amendment on an appropriation bill cutting off money for any state whose schools were segregated.

"There we would be in our state," Long said, in a prepared radio speech, "having to pay all those billions of dollars in taxes .... and not getting any of the benefits."

The senate passed the education aid bill Thursday providing about $2 billion in the next two years for school construction and teachers' salaries. It faces trouble in the House and almost certain veto by President Eisenhower.

But even if it does become law, Long said, "If you don't want the Federal government to tell you how to run your schools in the south you had better not take that money."

A SMALL tornado dipped down on Bald Knob, Ark., a town of 3,470, Thursday night and ripped away the plate glass windows and part of the facade of the bus station (building at left). The twister, which injured two women, also damaged eight houses in Bald Knob and several homes in a rural area north of the city. Herman Kyle, owner of the bus station-cafe building, said the tornado "just dipped down — whoom." The storm also struck Judsonia, Ark., near Bald Knob, but damage there was negligible. VIDEO SATIRE

Frivolous Series Spoofs Favorites

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I am a purveyor of frivolities," said Max Liebman, "and I aim to keep busy."

If a purveyor is to keep purveying, he has to have ideas, and Liebman's latest idea is a series of specials on TV presenting comic portraits of figures easily identifiable to the public.

Such as: The American businessman, the lover, the chorus girl, the career girl, the college boy, and the cowboy. The lover now is being considered for a Liebman show—a satire on how he behaves in literature, song, the movies, and real life.

The cowboy has already made it. He will be spoofed for an hour Wednesday night on a Liebman-produced special on CBS-TV. Against a sort of documentary background, the show will poke fun at cowboy legends, put the cowboy in an atmosphere such as he seldom is connected with, lampoon TV westerns. Wally Cox will play Billy the Kid.

One skit will show the method-cowboy: a New York method actor going through the first day of rehearsal of a cowboy show.

Liebman became famous for this kind of thing early in the history of television. He was the producer of "Your Show of Shows" and created the first "spectaculars," and he has received 65 awards for TV producing and directing.

He did a bit of research on the cowboy in general and came to some conclusions about the stories that built up around the old-time bad men.

"Most of it is hearsay—legends and folktales," he said. "There is no such thing as a folk villain. All bad men in the legends are heroes. Most of them were gangsters, unattractive, and represented the equivalent of our current hoodlums. And those that lived on in the stories were glorified."

Liebman has been out of action in television for more than two years. He was asked to give his views, from the standpoint of having been away from the medium, of what has been happening to TV.

"Over the last decade," he said, "in general, there has been a moving away from the forces that are represented by show people. Control has been taken over more and more by the broadcasting and advertising people.

"In this last year, because of the accent on special shows, there's been an attempt made to bring the show people back—Broadway and movie producers—to head up many of the specials. I guess the wheel is turning again.

"What is quickly discernible is that through the years there also has been an exodus from New York to California and with it there has been a great deal of Hollywood thinking that has gone into TV. What's Hollywood thinking? It's essentially related to picture making.

"There are many more story-telling shows now, and they have the personality of pictures rather than the theater. We have lost the opportunity for TV to develop as a new medium of its own—its own facets, style, technique, and literature. The little box has become more and more of a means of the exhibition of motion pictures.

"However, with the scheduling of so many specials this year, most of them done in the East, there's a return to the image of TV—the employment of techniques that spell TV more than anything else.

Jail Terms Asked For Two Radicals

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Jail terms were demanded by the prosecution Friday night for two right-wing radicals who set off a worldwide wave of anti-Jewish outbursts by the Christmas Eve desecration of the Cologne Synagogue.

The prosecutor proposed a two-year, three-month term for Arnold Strunk who told the court he defaced the synagogue "to draw the world's attention to the Jewish problem."

A 1-year, 9-month term was demanded for Paul Schoenen who assisted Strunk in the synagogue defacing and also joined him in smearing a monument for Nazi victims in Cologne.

Prosecutor Friedrich Maier-Bode said evidence at the one-day hearing was enough to call for the conviction on the multiple charges of endangering the Bonn Republic, damaging a public shrine, blasphemy and insult.

Both defendants admitted the outrages and said they acted on their own. Both are former members of the extreme right-wing German Reich party but denied that they were instigated by this group.

Medical experts testified that both were psychopathic personalities of low intelligence ratings.

CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

What Men's Styles Are Coming Too

By HARRY JUSTER

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Just what are men's styles coming to? The other day, my boss walked in wearing a suit with cuffs on the sleeves, none on the trousers and, of all things, a flower in the lapel! What are men trying to do—copy the women?

Eve L.

Perhaps Adam is coming into his own, Eve. The lift that smart clothes give isn't necessarily a monopoly of your sex; men can use it, too. Sporting a flower or wearing cuffs on sleeves doesn't make them less masculine. If you don't believe it, take a look at what the swashbuckling musketeers of old wore. More power to our modern man for being a little more daring in his dress.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: After my son wears a pair of slacks for a short time, you would think he had used a knife on the bottom of the cuffs. He wears slacks constantly and has no problem with their wearing out except at this spot. Any suggestions to keep this from happening would help this mother from getting a few more gray hairs.

Mrs. H. T. C.

To stop getting more gray hair from this problem, try sewing a small piece of material to the inside of the bottom of his slacks. Also check the length. "Floor scraping" length will wear them out fast. They'll last longer and look more sightly if the bottom of the cuff just hits the top of his shoe.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I dislike heavy materials and prefer lighter weights in dark colors during the winter, especially when the temperature permits. Yet my wife insists that I should wear a heavy "winter suit." Would you please give your opinion so that I can tell her I'm right?

Howard J.

She would be right — if you were back in the flapping curtain, touring car era. Today we drive in heated cars and work in air controlled buildings. Most of us have discovered that, outside of severe cold, 11 oz. mid-wates are much more comfortable than heavy, bulky 14-15 oz. materials for winter wear. I'm with you. Use the calendar for checking birthdays and special events, not as an inflexible clothes guide.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I'm curious as to why neckties are sometimes referred to as cravats, especially in finer shops. Is this supposed to designate a higher priced tie or is there some other reason for this term?

M. L.

A regiment of Croats started our neck adorning fashion. These representatives of the ancient kingdom of Crotia, now a part of Yugoslavia, went to Paris to celebrate their triumph over the Turks. King Louis XIV copied their fancy neckgear and started wearing a cloth around his throat. The word Croat was twisted into Cravat. Soon this style was popularized with the formation of the colorful regiment of Royal Cravattes.

TIP FOR THE DAY

Clothes Make the Man?

The following quote from a reader is worth repeating: "True, clothes do not make the man. The important thing is that they can UNMAKE him. My father made an indelible impression on my mind with this comment several years ago and I've never forgotten it." Don't let your clothes unmake you.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. His new leaflet, "Knotty Problems" will show you how to get an attractive knot in your tie, whether it's a four-in-hand or a bow. Send a stamped, self - addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet. Address Harry Juster in care of The World.

Area Student To Get Award

The 1960 Homemaker of Tomorrow at Downsville High School is Mary Frances Tidwell, it was announced yesterday.

She received the highest score in a 50-minute written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes taken by graduating senior girls. She will receive an award pin, representing the slogan, "Home is where the heart is." Her examination paper will be submitted for competition with other high school winners to name the state Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The test, which was prepared and judged by Science Research Associates of Chicago, was taken by a record number of 379,018 girls in 12,597 schools, an increase of 29,868 girls and 337 schools over last year.

New Way To Study Nerves Told

NEW YORK (UPI)—Researchers at the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center have developed a new way of measuring electrical activity in the stomach to determine a person's nervous condition, it was announced Saturday.

Dr. Edmund N. Goodman, who has been working on the method since 1933, said it also may prove important in determining which drugs are most useful in treating stomach disorders, such as ulcers.

Goodman said the new method is based on the premise that each organ of the body develops its own electrical pattern and that these characteristic patterns can be reproduced.

In the stomach, he said, there are two such patterns: an alternating form "believed to be hooked up with the neuro-muscular activity of the organ" and a direct current component which may be related to the organ itself.

Emotional or physical disturbance causes a change in the pattern, and it is this change that the new device developed by Goodman and his associates records.

Since there is believed to be an emotion pattern preceding an ulcer, for example, the device is intended to detect this pattern before actual onset of the disorder.

Goodman is assistant clinical professor of surgery in Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons and is a staff member of Presbyterian Hospital.

In using his device, a subject swallows a tube attached to a sausage-shaped balloon, which is inflated by the stomach. Five electrodes attached to the balloon measure the electrical output of various parts of the stomach.

An automatic recording device connected to the electrodes measures and charts the electrical output, while another machine simultaneously measures pressure changes in the stomach.

Goodman's device is the only one of its kind at the present time.

Coal veins were so near to the surface in Nova Scotia in the 1700s that the coal could be pried out of the ground with a crowbar.

WALL STREET VIEWS

Steel Issues Prospect Is Key

NEW YORK (AP) — The prospects for steel and automobile issues appear to be the key to the stock market in the immediate future, a Wall Street investment firm said Friday.

E. F. Hutton & Co. said there appears to be some re-evaluations in the making as to the fundamental outlook for these two groups.

It points out that car sales are moving up but that the rate of gain is still not fast enough to support the earlier industry forecasts. The firm also noted that motor shares have shown a long tendency to reach their peaks each year between November and March. This, it said, reflects the more realistic adjustments in the new year following the often too-optimistic earlier forecasts.

"As for steel," said Hutton, "two factors now seem significant: 1. Re-evaluations are being made as to the building up of inventory positions. 2. Great Britain again is trimming the price of pig iron and heavy plate.

"British steel prices are substantially lower than United States' prices and below those ruling in Europe for corresponding products in open hearth qualities. In view of the fact that steel imports were up 239 per cent last year, this news takes on added importance."

Walter K. Gutman of Shields & Co. says the fact that a readjustment of values in the stock market is happening swiftly is a good thing.

"The thing to be feared in a market is a long period of stagnation not only from the broker's standpoint for whom stagnation obviously is deadly but from the consumer's, who, of course, wants to make his money work," Gutman said. "It's also bad for companies that want to raise money.

"The January readjustment at least had the advantage of being decisive. I should think it would lay the groundwork for some type of good market adjustment in the spring."

Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says its opinion is that a revival of buying demand should be forthcoming, accompanied by an expanded volume of turnover.

the 660-670 zone of Dow-Jones industrial average," it said. "We believe that both investor and trader are beginning to view

Failure of rallying efforts to gain a sustained following in recent sessions undoubtedly will add to the uncertainties and doubts existing in the minds of 7 market followers, says Bache & Co. As a result, it expects a continuation of market irregularity.

Butcher Hog Prices Advance

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hog prices advanced as much as 50 cents a hundredweight Friday.

The supply of 4,500 head sold early at prices 25 to 50 cents higher with one lot bringing $14.50, the highest since that price was paid Sept. 11.

Buyers paid $13.25-14.00 Friday for mixed grades up to 250 lbs and $12.50 - 13.50 for heavier weights. Sows were strong to 25 cents higher, bringing $10.50 - 11.75.

The supply of all cattle classes was negligible and there were no slaughter steer or heifer sales reported. Some standard vealers sold up to $26.00 and utility to commercial bulls at $19.00-20.50.

A few wooled slaughter lambs cleared at $19.50-20.00 in a quotably steady sheep market. Ewes topped at $7.50.

Bail Set For 6 On Plot Charge

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Bail from $25,000 to $50,000 was allowed Friday for six Pennsylvania and Florida men convicted and sentenced to prison on charges stemming from a plot to run arms to Fidel Castro's Cuban rebel forces in 1958.

U.S. Third Circuit Court judges Herbert F. Goodrich, William E. Hastie and Phillip Forman set the bail pending disposition of an appeal filed by counsel for the defendants. The court set the week of March 21 for hearing arguments on the merits of the appeal, with a specific date to be set later.

An attorney for the six petitioned the Appellate Court here after U.S. District Judge Robert T. Foley, who presided at their trial in Pittsburgh, denied motions for a new trial and refused them bond. Foley imposed sentences ranging up to five years Thursday shortly after they were convicted by a federal court jury.

Bond of $50,000 was set for Stuart Sutor, Hialeah, Fla.; Joseph Merola, Miami, Fla., and Norman Rothman, Surfside, Fla., and Victor Carlucci and Daniel Hanna, New Kensington, Pa. Each had been sentenced to five years in prison and fined $5,000.

Bail of $25,000 was set for the sixth defendant, Joseph Giordano, New Kensington, who had been sentenced to three years in prison.

The case was touched off on Nov. 4, 1958, when Sutor's gun-laden plane was seized during a refueling stop at Morgantown, W. Va. Rothman was indicted for conspiracy in hiring Sutor and purchasing the plane, and Merola allegedly accompanied Sutor on a flight.

Carlucci's truck was operated by Hanna, allegedly to haul the guns to the plane at an airport in New Kensington. Giordano was accused of purchasing burlap bags used to conceal the guns.

The government charged that the 123 weapons found in Sutor's plane had been stolen from a National Guard armory at Canton, Ohio, Oct. 14, 1958.

Grain Market Musters Some More Support

CHICAGO (AP) — After scraping around at its lowest levels in several weeks, the grain futures market mustered a little more general support Friday and posted numerous moderate gains.

Losses were few and also small. They were in contracts where dealings were lightest. Rye, with advances of major fractions to more than a cent, was the strongest commodity on the Board of Trade but it is one of the thinnest markets and usually swings wider than other grains.

Price changes otherwise were limited almost entirely to small fractions.

At the close, wheat was ¾ cent a bushel higher to ⅛ lower, March $1.98¾; corn unchanged to ¼ higher, March $1.14¼-⅜; oats ½ lower to ⅛ higher, March 75 cents; rye ¾-1¼ higher, March $1.25⅝ - ½; soybeans ⅜ higher to ⅛ lower, March $2.12¾-⅝.

STEEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Price cutting of warehouse steel spread Friday as U.S. Steel announced it is making further price revisions averaging out to a reduction of about $1 a ton. The price cuts on rolled carbon steel apply to "bit steel's" warehousing operations in Pittsburgh, Cleveland and St. Paul. The action follows similar cuts made by Inland Steel on this type of steel product in Pittsburgh.

DURABLE GOODS

New supplies of steel in December enabled durable goods manufacturers to rebuild their inventories to the July level, the Commerce Department reported. The restocking lifted business inventories overall by 800-million dollars in December to a total of $89,200,000,000. The replenishment of stocks offset the liquidation of the preceding four months.

CHEVROLET

Production cutbacks were scheduled by General Motors because of the strike of 10,000 Chevrolet manufacturing plant workers in Flint, Mich. GM announced cutbacks at the Chevrolet and Fisher Body Division plants.

TREASURY

The Treasury reported an unusual measure of success in this week's refinancing of $11,561,000,000 of the national debt. The Treasury said investors swapped two maturing issues of securities for $6,928,000,000 in a new one-year 4⅞ per cent certificate of indebtedness and $4,171,000,000 in a new four-year nine-month note yielding 4.93 per cent.

SOCONY

Socony-Mobil Oil Co. estimated 1959 consolidated net earnings climbed to $162,600,000 or $3.35 a share from $156,800,000 or $3.24 a share in 1958. Sales of oil products increased to 1,063,000 barrels per day from 986,000 in 1958.

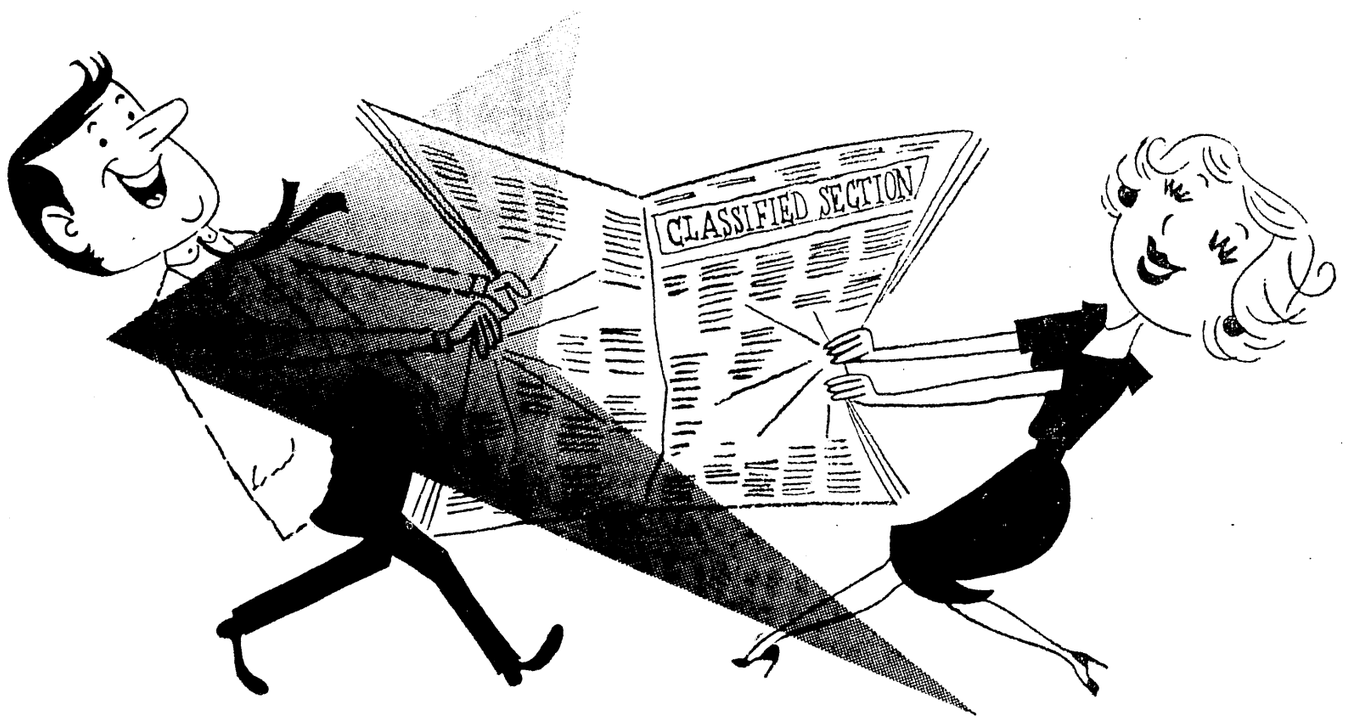
Why the tug-of-war for the Classified pages?

Because they are so downright handy, helpful and so profitable!



THE MAN OF THE HOUSE . . . finds exceptional values in the sports and hobby equipment he wants . . . locates reliable service firms to do the household job he wants to duck . . . finds the better car buys . . . and possibly a better job, a loan, and equipment for the office or plant too. Of course he uses the ads to hire help, sell, and get other important things done too.

AND HIS BRIGHT WIFE . . . locates things the whole family needs and wants at bargain prices, sells the articles they own but don't use any more. She also finds baby sitters, housecleaning help, and people to do many other jobs . . . like fixing the TV, or repairing the washer. She probably located the place they live in through the Classified ads too. Her 2 line ads cost only 44c daily on the low 7 day rate.

U.S. PRESIDENT

Magazine Airs Protestant Views

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Christianity Today, a non-denominational Protestant magazine, said Friday it is "perfectly rational" for Protestants to oppose election of a Roman Catholic as U.S. president.

The magazine, published fortnightly and circulated among 200,000 Protestant clergymen across the country, made the assertion in an unsigned editorial.

It said the Vatican "does all in its power" to control governments and often has succeeded.

"A Catholic president alone will not turn the United States into a Colombia or Spain," it added, "but he would, in all likelihood, knowingly or otherwise take what steps he could in that direction.

"Where the Romanists are strong enough, they persecute; where less strong, they oppress and harass; where they are in the minority, they seek special privileges, government favor and more power."

The editorial said that Protestants who oppose a Catholic candidate for the presidency are not guilty of "bigotry" in the sense of irrational prejudice.

"Opposition to political Romanism is not unreasoning, because a Catholic in the presidency would be torn between two loyalties as no Protestant has ever been," it said. "A candidate may announce and sincerely believe that he is immune to Vatican pressure; but can we be sure that he will not succumb in the confessional booth to threats of purgatory and promises of merit from an organization which he believes holds the keys to heaven?"

The magazine is oriented toward the so-called "conservative" or "fundamentalist" wing of Protestanism. Its editor is Dr. Carl F. H. Henry. Listed among 52 "contributing editors" are evangelist Billy Graham, Methodist Bishop Arthur J. Moore of Atlanta, Ga., and the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church of Washington which President Eisenhower attends.

Louisiana Police Seek Invalid Driver License

Approximately 40 drivers' licenses violations have been noted each day by members of Troop F, Louisiana state police, Capt. M. E. Kidd said yesterday. This number includes all found in the 12-parish area in which the troop operates.

The troop commander said the violations include all types, expired, revoked and persons who have never received licenses.

"The number of persons ticketed also include those who may have a valid license, but do not have them on their person when driving," Capt. Kidd said. "In these instances the driver is given a ticket and he must take the valid license to the district attorney's office to have the charge nolle prossed."

The crackdown on driver's licenses was ordered by Co. E. P. Roy, director of the Louisiana Department of Public Safety, after the month of February was designated "Check Your Driver's License Month."

Roy said records in the driver's license division indicated more than one hundred thousand of the state's motorists are operating with expired driver's or chauffeur's licenses. He added that most of the offenders with expired licenses were found in the more populated metropolitan areas.

The licenses are renewable on the individual motorists's birthday and can be renewed 30 days in advance of the expiration date.

Ike Planning Sugar Quota Cut For Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower plans to ask Congress next week for authority to cut the sugar quota of Cuba for any foreign country when such action is deemed in the national interest, U.S. officials said Friday.

The authority is being sought to give the administration greater flexibility in dealing with the government of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Officials said the administration plans to send its recommendations for a new sugar bill to Congress by the middle of next week.

The administration program was given an advance airing Friday night by Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.) in a speech before the Western Colorado Beet Growers Association at Grand Junction, Colo.

Allott said the plan would give the United States greater independence from Cuba in the sugar market "if we need it." The Cuban economy depends heavily on its sugar industry and especially exports to the United States.

Referring to Castro, Allott said that unless the U.S. Sugar Act is changed by the middle o fthe year "the source of one-third of America's sugar supply will be completely controlled by a man who is violently anti-American."

In addition to seeking flexible authority over foreign quotas, the administration will recommend a four-year extension of the Sugar Act.

Johnson Says Won't Seek Nomination

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson said Friday he will not seek the Democratic nomination for president.

The statement indicated the Texas senator will anchor any hope for the nomination on a draft at his party's Los Angeles convention.

Johnson, here to address a Western Democratic conference, was asked at a news conference whether he would accept the nomination. He said he would decide that if it happened.

On the question of actually working for the presidential bid he said: "I will not seek the nomination."

The Senate majority leader said he has had nothing to do with the Johnson-for-President Club. He said he told organizers of the club in California that he appreciated their confidence but that he would not authorize the clubs.

De Gaulle Fires Two Key Aides

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle Friday dismissed two sympathizers of the right-wing Algerian settlers from his Cabinet and hustled three ministers to Algiers for an on-the-spot study.

Jacques Soustelle and Bernard Cornut-Gentille were fired from the government. They favored appeasing the insurgents in the Algiers barricades last week, while De Gaulle took a tough line and rallied France to his side.

Soustelle had been minister-delegate in the premier's office with responsibility for atomic energy, the Sahara and overseas departments. Cornut - Gentile was minister of communications.

The changes left Premier Michel Debre's government, already dominated by administrative technicians, with hardly a strong political voice to speak up in opposition to De Gaulle.

Soustell and Finance Minister Antoine Pinay, ousted a few weeks ago for opposing De Gaulle's international policies, were the last of the big-name politicians to hold ministries.

Soustelle issued a statement saying he was kicked out for "no other motive than the devotion I intend to keep, in spite of and against everything, for the cause of a French Algeria."

"French Algeria" was the insurgent slogan.

In the shakeup, De Gaulle named three new men to the Cabinet and shifted the duties of four others.

The new government met for the first time Friday afternoon. It decided that Pierre Messmer, new minister of defense; Pierre Chatenet, interior minister, and Edmond Michelet, minister of justice, should fly to Algeria Saturday to study diverse measures for putting things back in order.

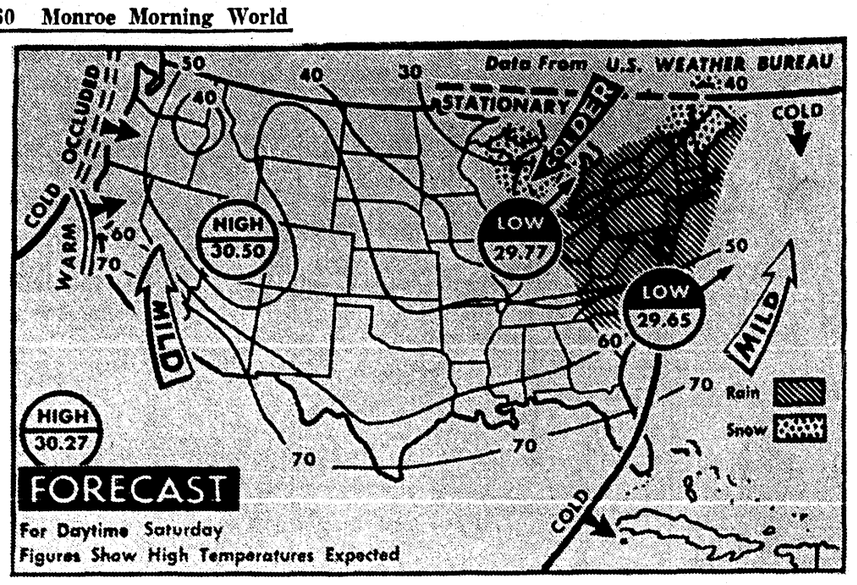
The Cabinet also discussed changes in sections of the penal code covering the internal security of the state. The communique said the broad lines of such changes had been approved, but no further details were given.

There was no mention of any discussion of other decrees that might be issued under the special powers Paliament gave the government this week.

Paris newspapers have been filled with speculation about purges of the police, civil service and top military command. Although officials say no announcement will be made about army transfers the newspaper Le Monde reported that a number of officers have been moved back to continental France from Algeria. Among them were said to be the chief of staff for the Algiers region and a lieutenant colonel from a paratroop division. Paratroopers in Algiers had been openly friendly with the insurgents.

Six right-wing extremist organizations in Algeria have been dissolved, and a number of their leaders have been arrested or are being sought. A warrant has been issue for the arrest of Jean Demarquet, a former deputy who went to Algeria at the time of the insurrection, and later said he was joining a paratroop unit of the Foreign Legion.

In Algiers, Dr. Bernard Lefevre, one of the political leaders of the abortive uprising, was formally charged with an attack on the internal security of the state.



FAIR WEATHER is forecast over most of the country today with precipitation limited mainly to the eastern Great Lakes region, Ohio Valley and the Atlantic Coast states from North Carolina northward. It will be warmer in the Missouri Valley and cooler in the Great Lakes region and the Tennessee Valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

IN ADVERTISING

Tobacco Industry To Halt Health Bit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tobacco industry — with a nudge from the government — has agreed to stop claiming certain cigarettes effectively filter tars and nicotine, or yield health benefits to smokers.

This was disclosed Friday by Chairman Earl W. Kintner of the Federal Trade Commission in a talk to the Advertising Federation of America.

Claims entered for various competing brands, Kintner said, were confusing to the public and possibly misleading in view of the absence of a satisfactory uniform testing method and proof of advantage to the smoker.

At the same meeting, Chairman John C. Doerfer of the Federal Communications Commission suggested that advertising agencies and broadcasters join in some arrangement to screen out offensive material before commercials go on TV and radio.

Doerfer advocated prompt and farsighted self - regulation, warning that congressmen and commissioners are in no mood to tolerate for long defiance or dilatory corrections of that which offends many families.

Kintner told his audience of advertising people the tobacco industry will revamp its sales pitch as soon as it becomes mechanically possible. This apparently means as soon as new advertising layouts and radio-TV commercials can be prepared and substituted for ones which have been in use.

Kintner indicated he was disposed to be lenient as to time. He said the changeover in advertising format is a big job for an industry spending 190 million dollars a year on pushing its products.

Before this, the FTC allowed cigarette claims about elimination of tars and nicotine, and about health aspects, provided an independent research laboratory had furnished some proof to back them up.

But now FTC holds such claims can be made to the smoking public only if the advertiser offers physiological proof of health benefits.

On another problem, Kintner said his agency has put out 37 complaints of payola practices involving record manufacturers and sellers.

Payola means payments to disc jockeys to plug certain recordings or other products.

The practice has come under attack in Congress, by regulatory commissions, and the Justice Department.

Kintner indicated more payola complaints are coming. The FTC has gathered evidence of payments to more than 75 disc jockeys in more than 25 cities, he said.

This information has been given to the FCC and the Revenue Service, Kintner told the advertising group.

Kintner endorsed some of the recommendations made by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers for laws to deal with payola and like practices.

Among others, Kintner said he agreed with the suggestion that accepting payola be made a crime but he proposed that criminal penalties be extended to distributors and others who offer the payments.

POLITICAL BEDFELLOWS

House Selling Hassle Raging

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An alliance of strange political bedfellows is trying to persuade Congress to tap the treasury for one billion dollars to make it easier to sell new houses in the lower-price range.

The administration is opposed.

In the forefront of the fight for the legislation are the liberal wing of organized labor, the liberally - oriented Americans for Democratic Action, and one segment of the usually-conservative business community—the home-building industry.

During a weeklong hearing by a House banking subcommittee a parade of homebuilders, concluding a spokesman for a National Association of Pre-Fab builders, endorsed the proposal. None opposed it.

The National Association of Home Builders—in which there is a dispute over the merits of the plan—restricted itself to a policy statement adopted unanimously at its Chicago meeting which gave conditional endorsement to the proposal.

The association said it favored other measures to relieve the pinch on mortgage credit. In the absence of such measures, it said it would "as a last resort" favor tapping the treasury for a large amount of mortgage funds.

The disputed plan would give the homebuilding industry a shot in the arm by applying the principles of the farm price support program to new FHA-insured and GI mortgages of $13,800 or less.

Government - backed mortgages today aren't worth 100 cents on the dollar because:

—Interest rates are limited to 5¼ per cent on mortgages guaranteed by the Veterans Administration and to 5¾ per cent on FHA-insured mortgages.

—The sharp rise in the cost of borrowing money during the past year enables lenders to get much higher interest on loans, including coventional-type mortgages.

As a result, a lender today normally won't invest in a government-backed mortgage, unless he can get it at a discount.

Discounts in many areas average 3 or 4 per cent and in some areas range as high as 8 per cent, which is equivalent to an additional one per cent in mortgage interest. A $13,800 mortgage discounted at 8 per cent sells for $12,716.

Under government regulations, the builder is supposed to absorb the discount out of his profits.

Builders are complaining that the profits aren't that big and therefore many persons who would otherwise buy houses this year under the government's low down - payment programs, won't get a chance to do so.

The disputed plan, advanced by the builders with strong labo backing, is designed to resolv this impasse. It would enable lender to put up $13,800 for $13,800 mortgage, secure in th knowledge that he could prompt resell the mortgage to the feder national mortgage association fo $13,800.

Regardless of the mortgage market value, the agency wou be required to pay 100 cents o the dollar for it. The excess ov the actual market value wou amount to a subsidy. Homebuil ers contend it shouldn't be calle that because the treasury eventu ally will get the one bill dollar back as the mortgages are pa off.

In any event, the plan woul provide low down-payment financ ing for 70,000 to 80,000 homes.

Near Mishap Told By Two Airliners

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two airliners carrying a total of 39 passengers nearly collided over Kentucky Thursday night, it was disclosed Friday.

The pilot of an American Airlines DC-6 said he veered to the right and dived to avoid an oncoming United Air Lines DC-7, which was "somewhat over 200 feet away."

The incident occurred over York, Ky. The American plane was en route from Louisville, Ky., to New York and Boston with 19 passengers. The United plane, with 20 passengers aboard, was en route from San Francisco to Washington and Philadelphia.

Visibility was clear and both pilots saw each other in time to avoid a collision.

Captain Dennis Kelly, pilot of the American plane, said he was flying at the prescribed altitude of 19,000 feet when he saw the other plane approaching. He said he made an abrupt dive, but no passengers were thrown from their seats and there were no injuries.

A United spokesman said in Philadelphia that its pilot also "dove down a little bit—not a violent maneuver — and passengers weren't even aware of what was happening." The plane was piloted by Captain S. M. Anderson.
